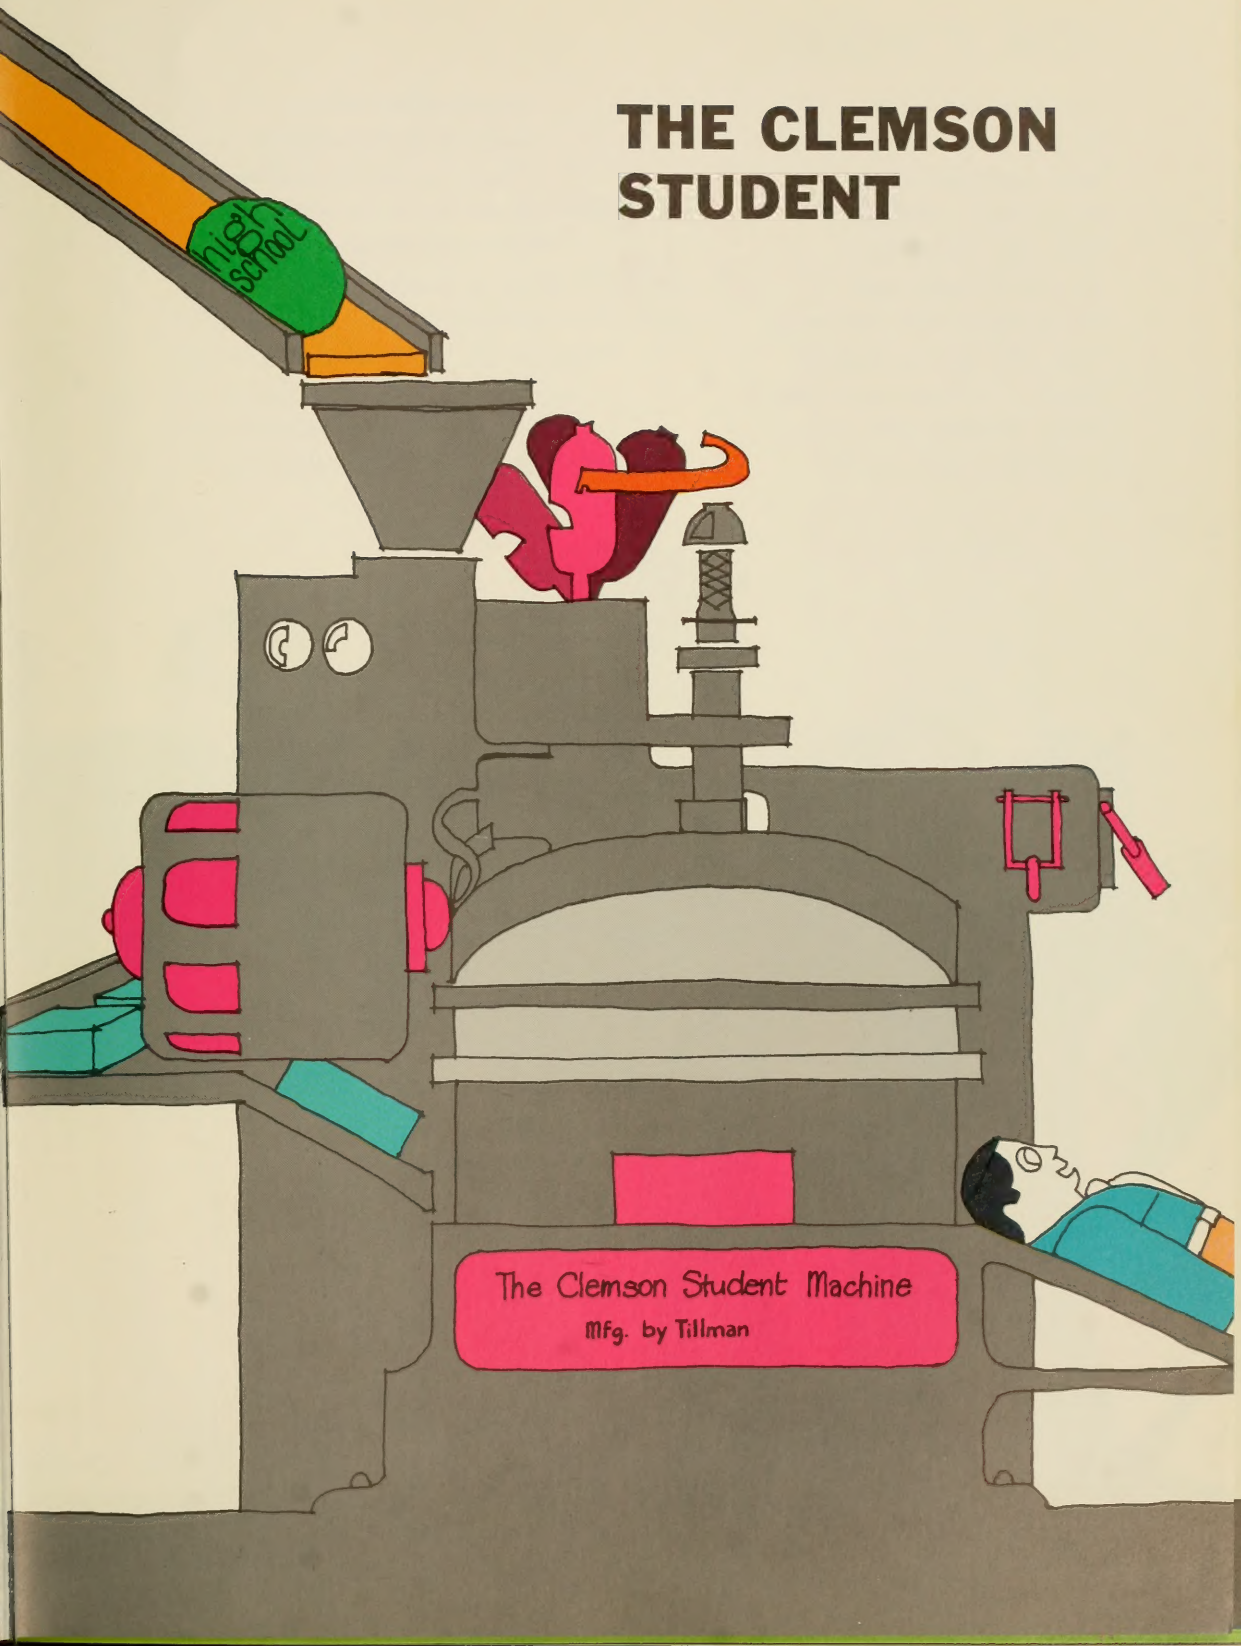
THE CLEMSON STUDENT



HOW IT WORKS

Two . bits. Four bits.
Six bits. And so on . . .
How much you willing to pay for a winner?
Settle for 4 and 6?
All you Clemson rats:
five thousand foul screaming
"Ref ain't got no Daddy!"
vermin . . . Hear whar they's gonna 'condition the cans . . .
in the foot holes of the majestic Blue Ridge
where it yams greyness.
"You a stoodent at Clemson, boy?"
Soul man, Hippie commie queer,
Leroy, Southern virgins, fermenting
in the buckle of the Bible belt.
God contemplating the lint heads in his navel.
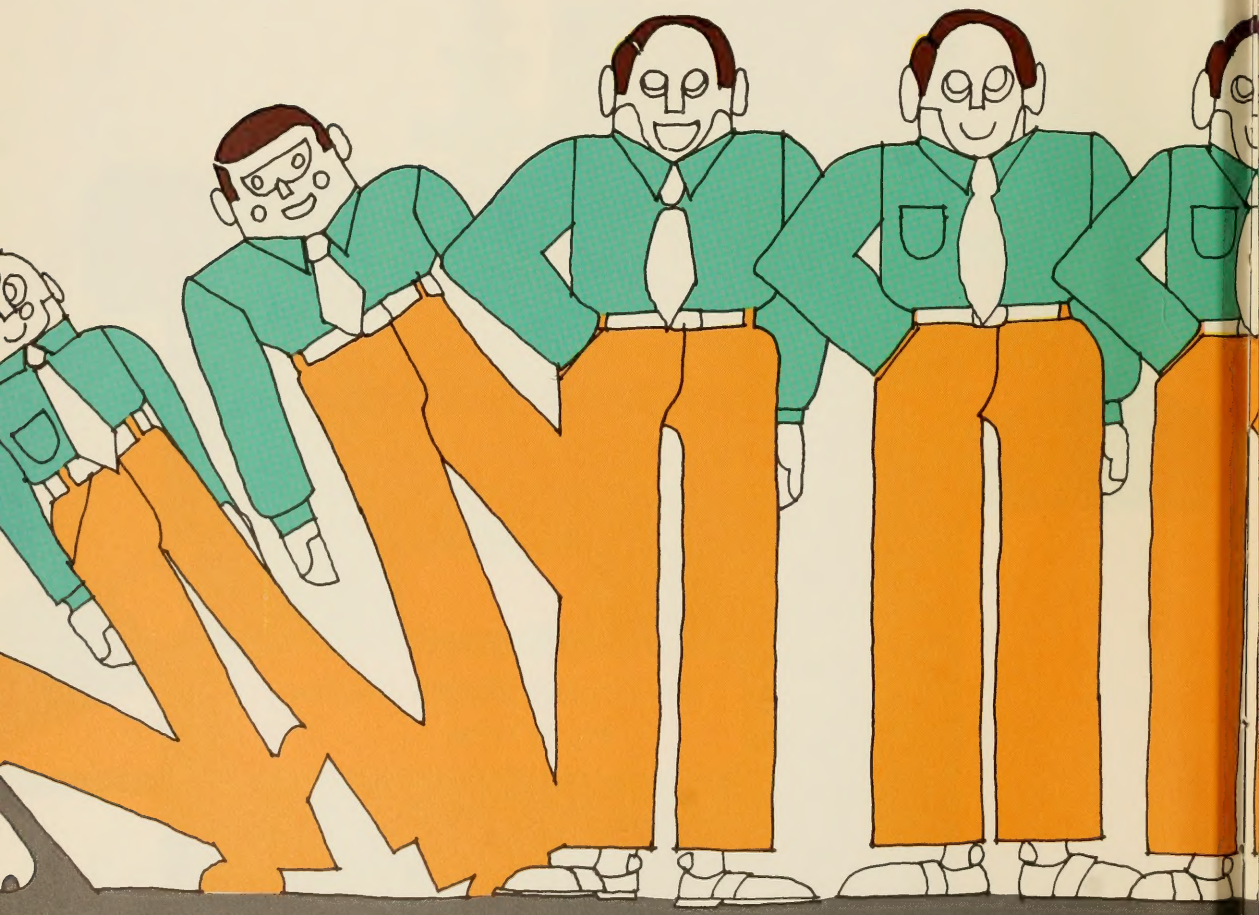
The Clemson Gentleman



a universal toy soldier—
Tiger got to you this year didn't it?
Naked ladies on screen at the Study Hall
Cyndy gyratin' cross the street.
Wednesday's chicken day for you S.C. fans.
Dance weekend—Jerry Butler, sweaty soul music, but what about February 14?
Cuss words set to music, but no
swearin' in pubic places.
These are a few of our favorite things?

BLACK

Black is black, and accordin' to the Bible
But the Bible ain't always right.

They didn't:
burn the flag
get rid of our song or rape our women or marry our sisters or get any of their demands

Keep worryin' honkeee
They got one on the team
They'll be back next year.

WHITE

White is beautiful, too at times. . . . . .

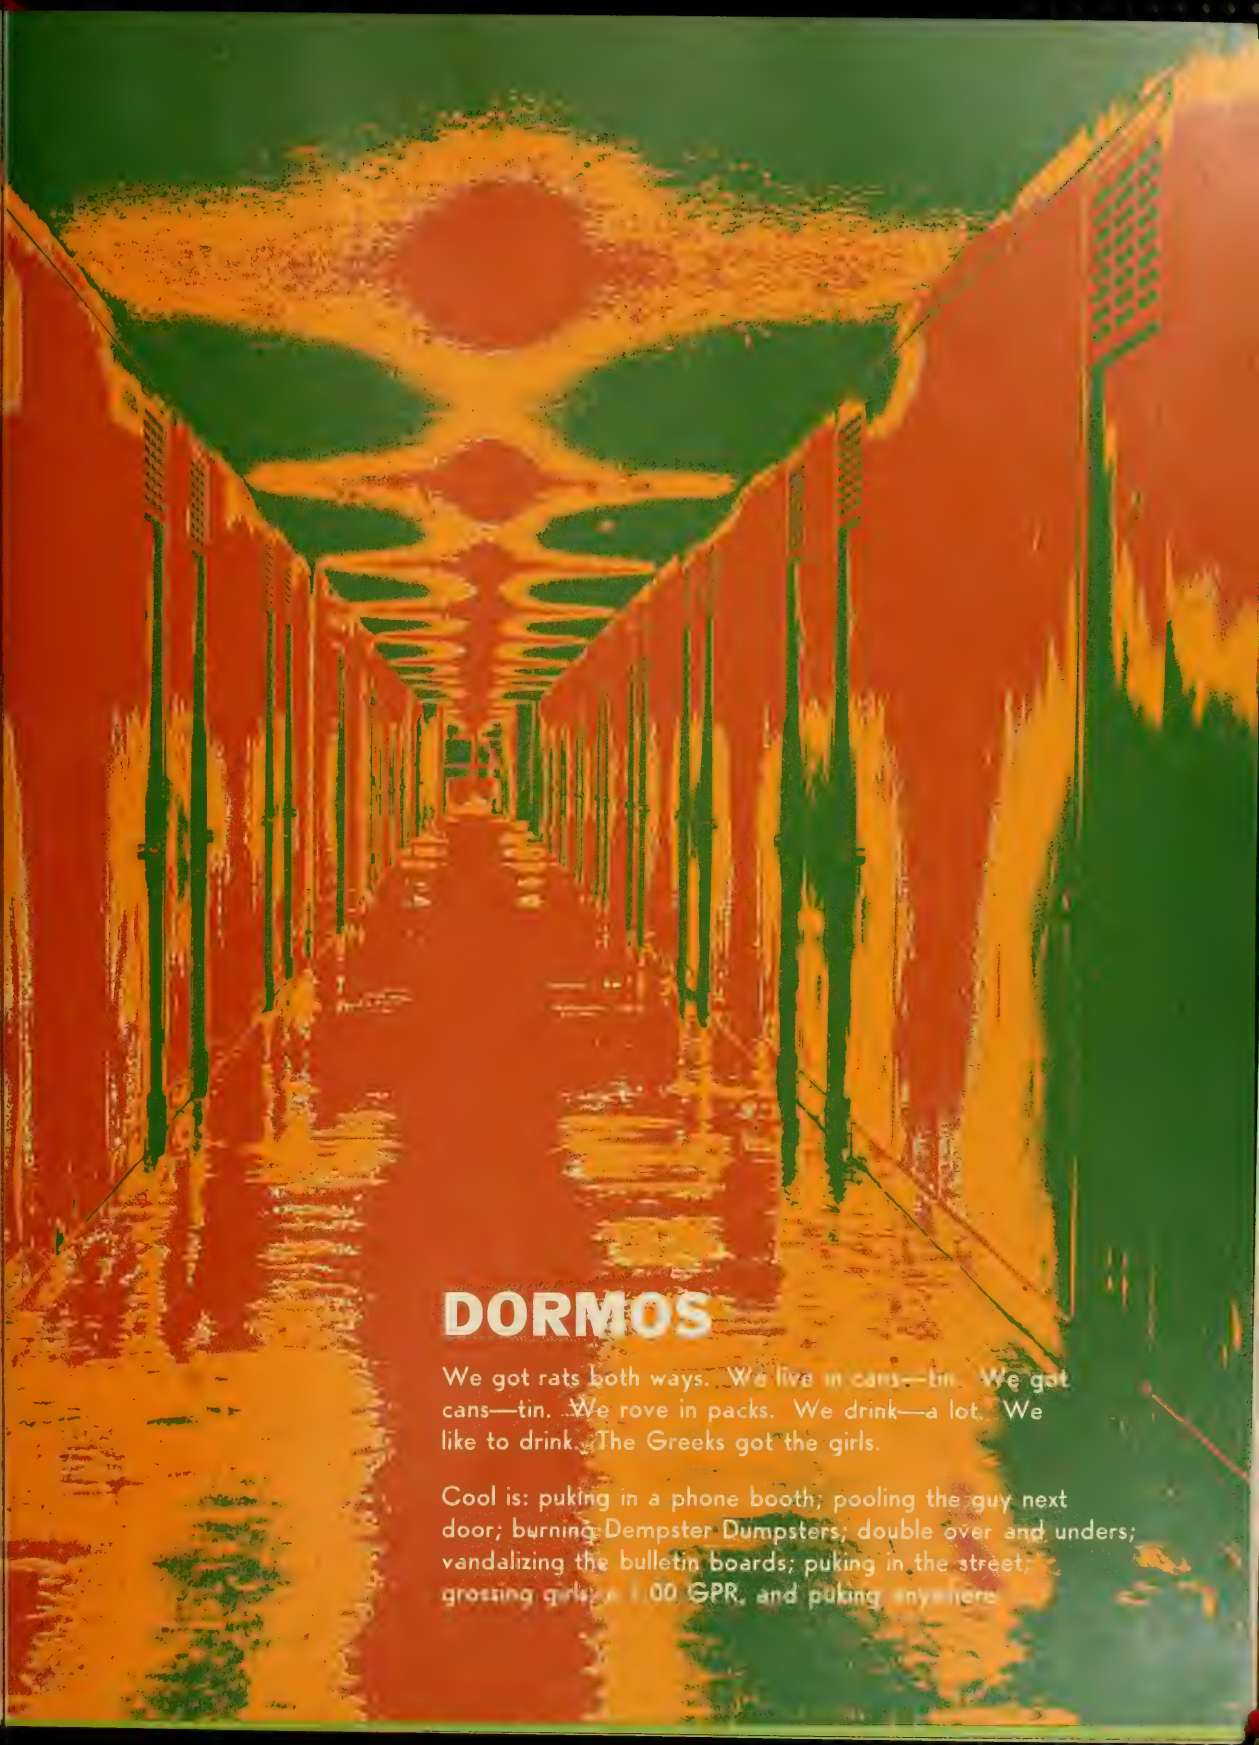
GREEKS

We are all brothers here within our narrow confines, but nevertheless I don't like that Dufus down the hall.
And now we're going national. Take that you GDI.

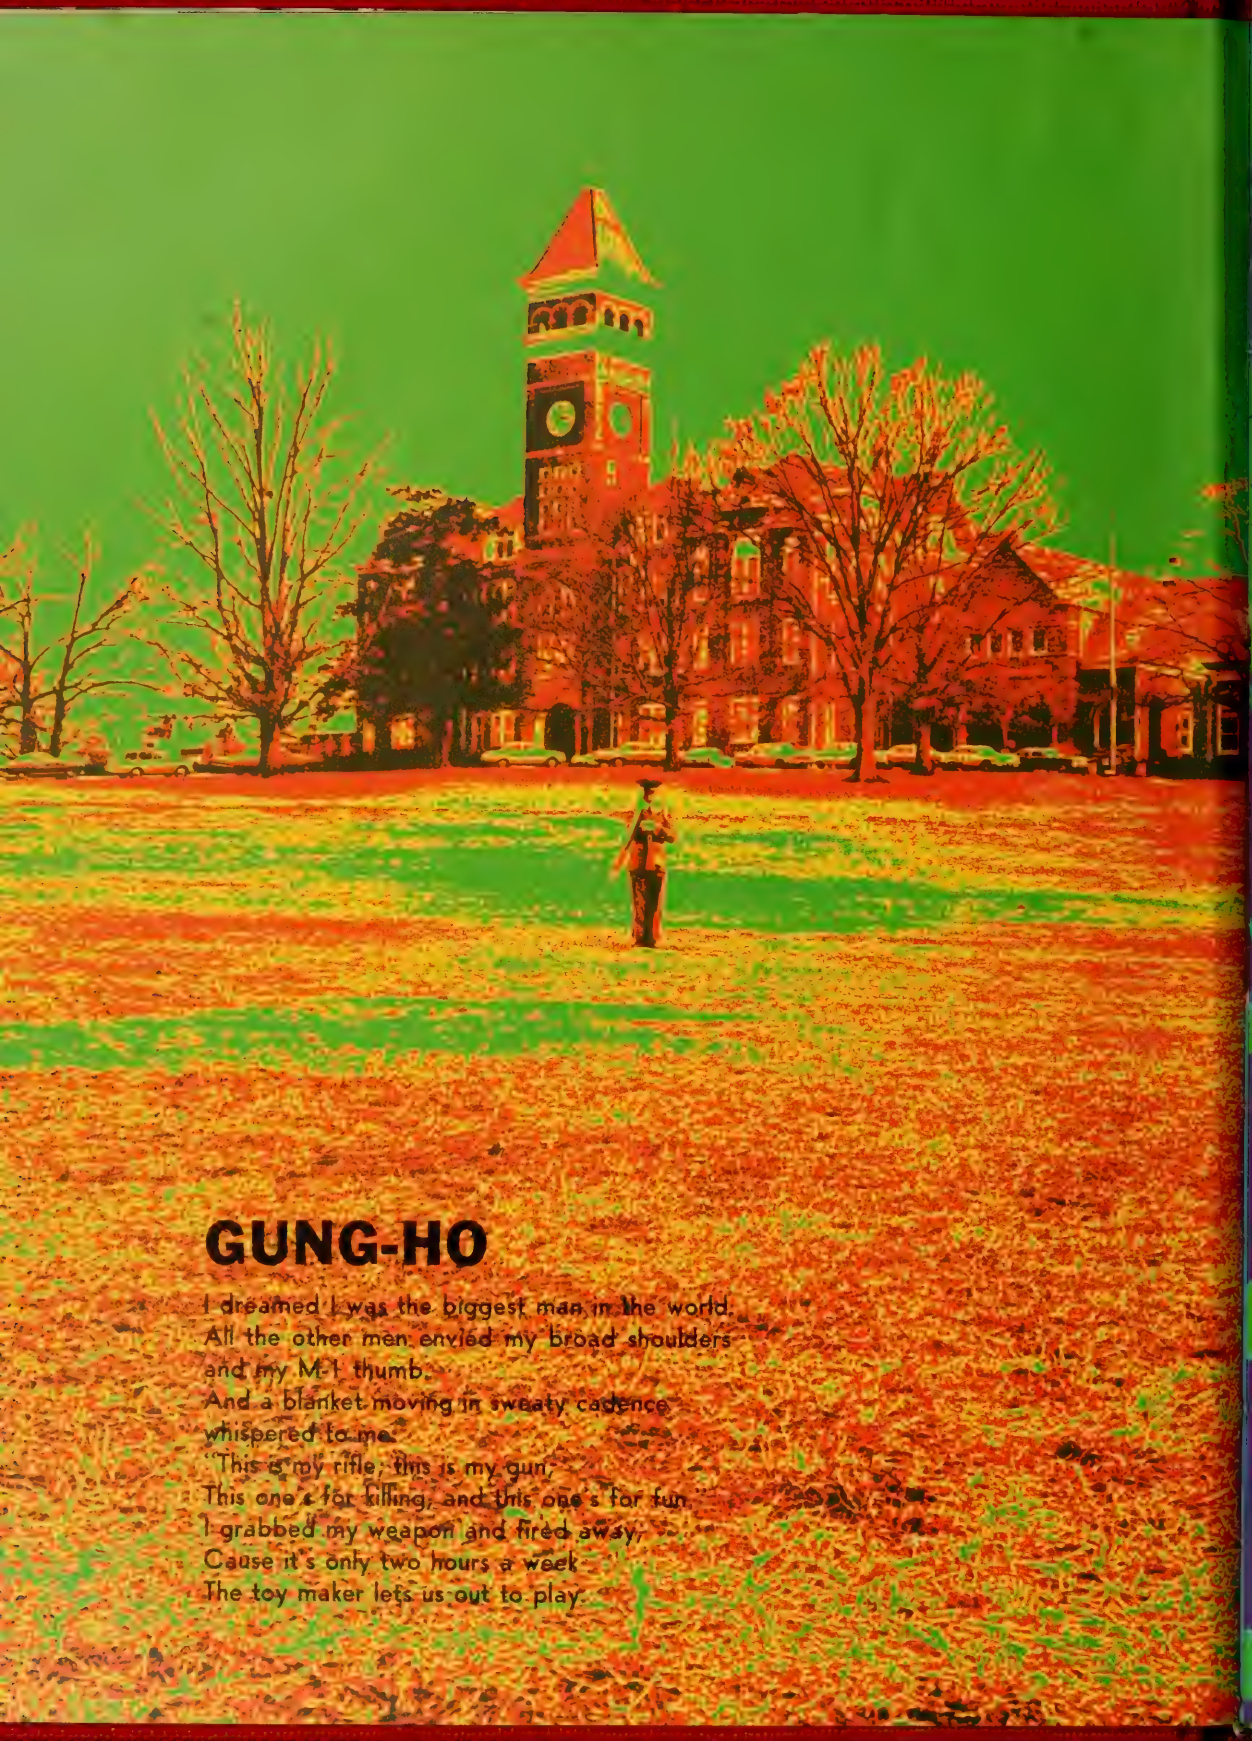
Cool is: arm pits stains on your pockets; alpaca with the sleeves cut off, and worn as socks; twenty-seven inch kahaks in case of high water; buckles, tassles, flaps, and straps; cufflinks with our social security numbers engraved.



DORMOS

We got rats both ways. We live in cans—tin. We got cans—tin. We rove in packs. We drink—a lot. We like to drink. The Greeks got the girls.

Cool is: puking in a phone booth; pooling the guy next door; burning Dempster Dumpsters; double over and unders; vandalizing the bulletin boards; puking in the street; grossing girls; 100 GPR, and puking anywhere.



GUNG-HO

I dreamed I was the biggest man in the world.
All the other men envied my broad shoulders and my M-1 thumb.
And a blanket moving in sweaty cadence
whispered to me
"This is my rifle, this is my gun,
This one's for killing, and this one's for fun."
I grabbed my weapon and fired away,
Cause it's only two hours a week
The toy maker lets us out to play.

FREAKS

I dreamed I was the dirtiest man in the world.
All the humans turned their noses up at me in disgust. I was in my glory.
They were looking at me. At ME, by God.
And a sweaty blanket moving in filthy
cadence whispered to me:
"This is my rifle; this is my gun;
You long-haired, fairy, commie, fascist, pig, stupid-ass bastard, pack up and run."
And I couldn't wake up, but there is a bit of the psychomasochist in us all, isn't there?

this weekend. I privileges. I just married couple around with the sex-crazy
mamma they don't even Dean Delaney spoke Education and good time I wished girl mamma,
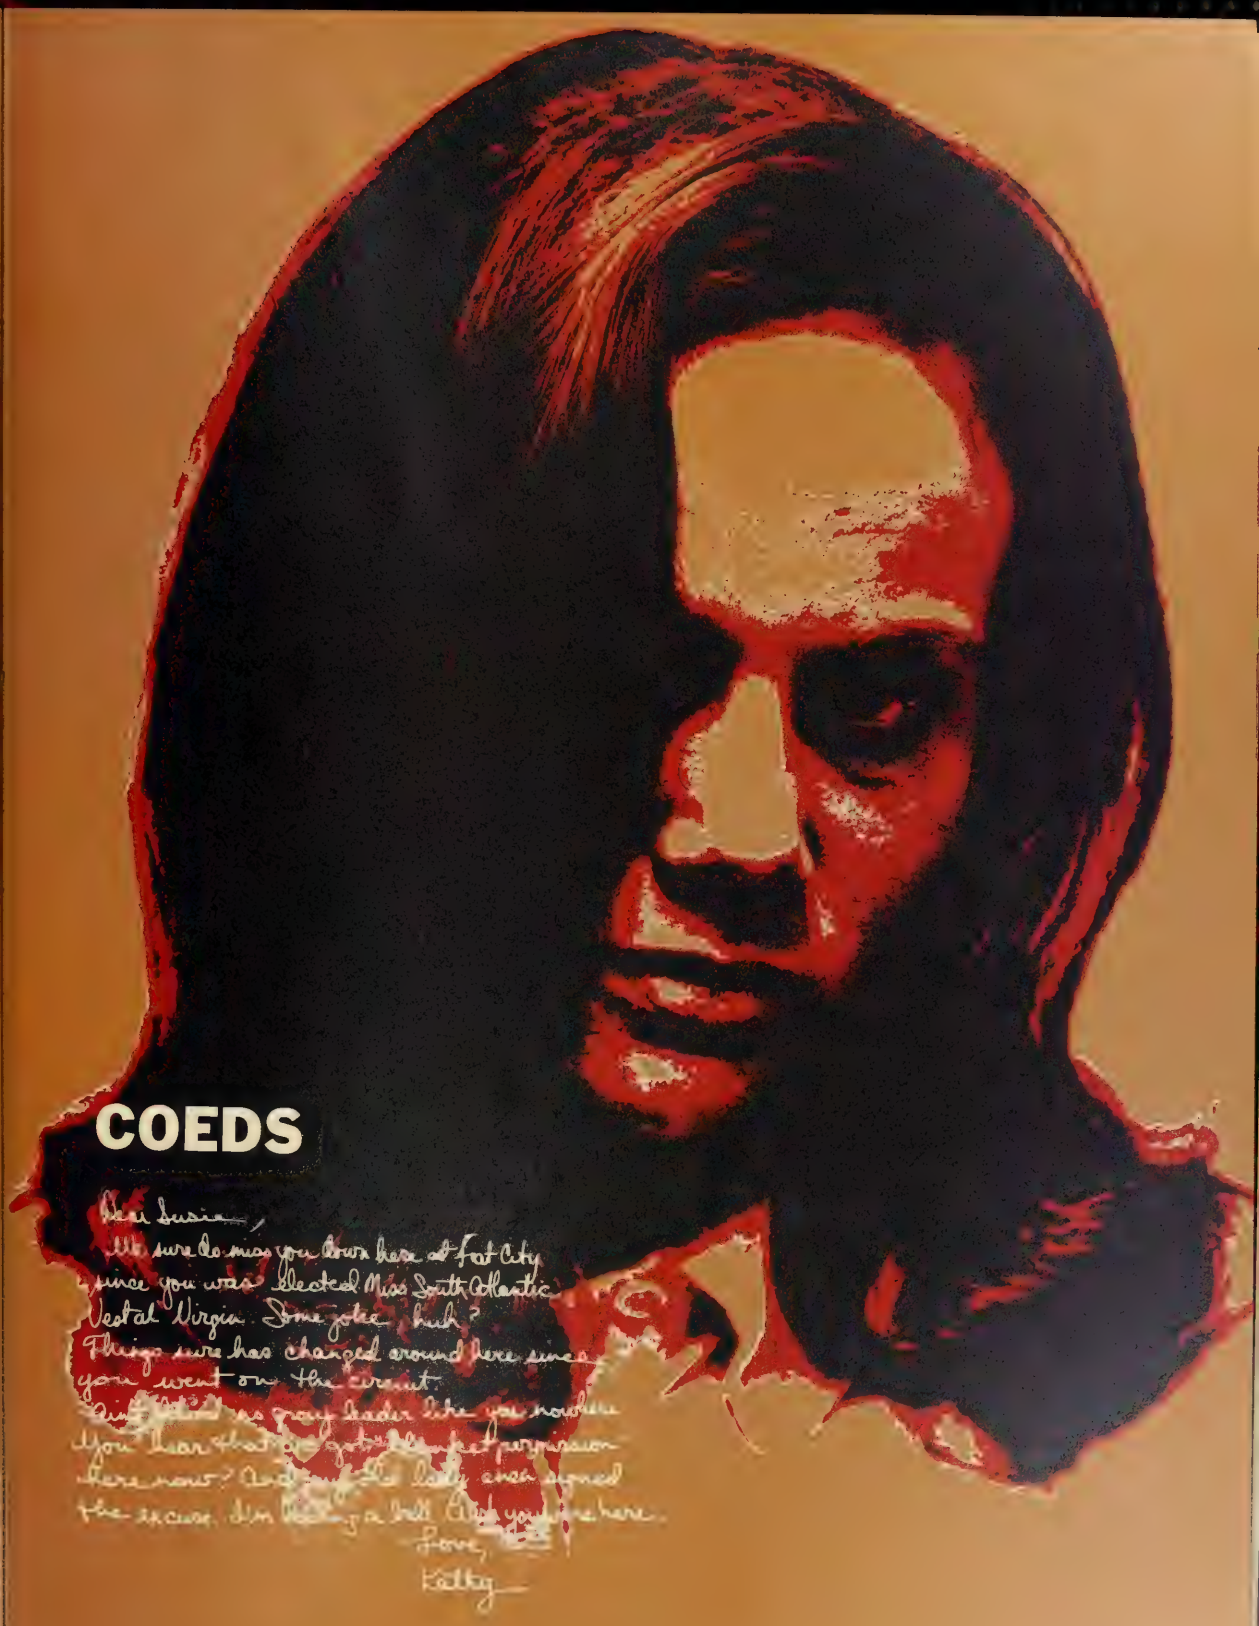
Love,
Kathy



COEDS

Dear Susie,
We sure do miss you down here at Fat City
since you was elected Miss South Atlantic Vestal Virgin. Some joke, huh?
Things sure has changed around here since you went on the circuit.
Girls don't act as crazy leader like you now.
You hear that we got a blanket permission here now? And the lady even signed the excuse. I'm telling ya hell. Wish you were here.
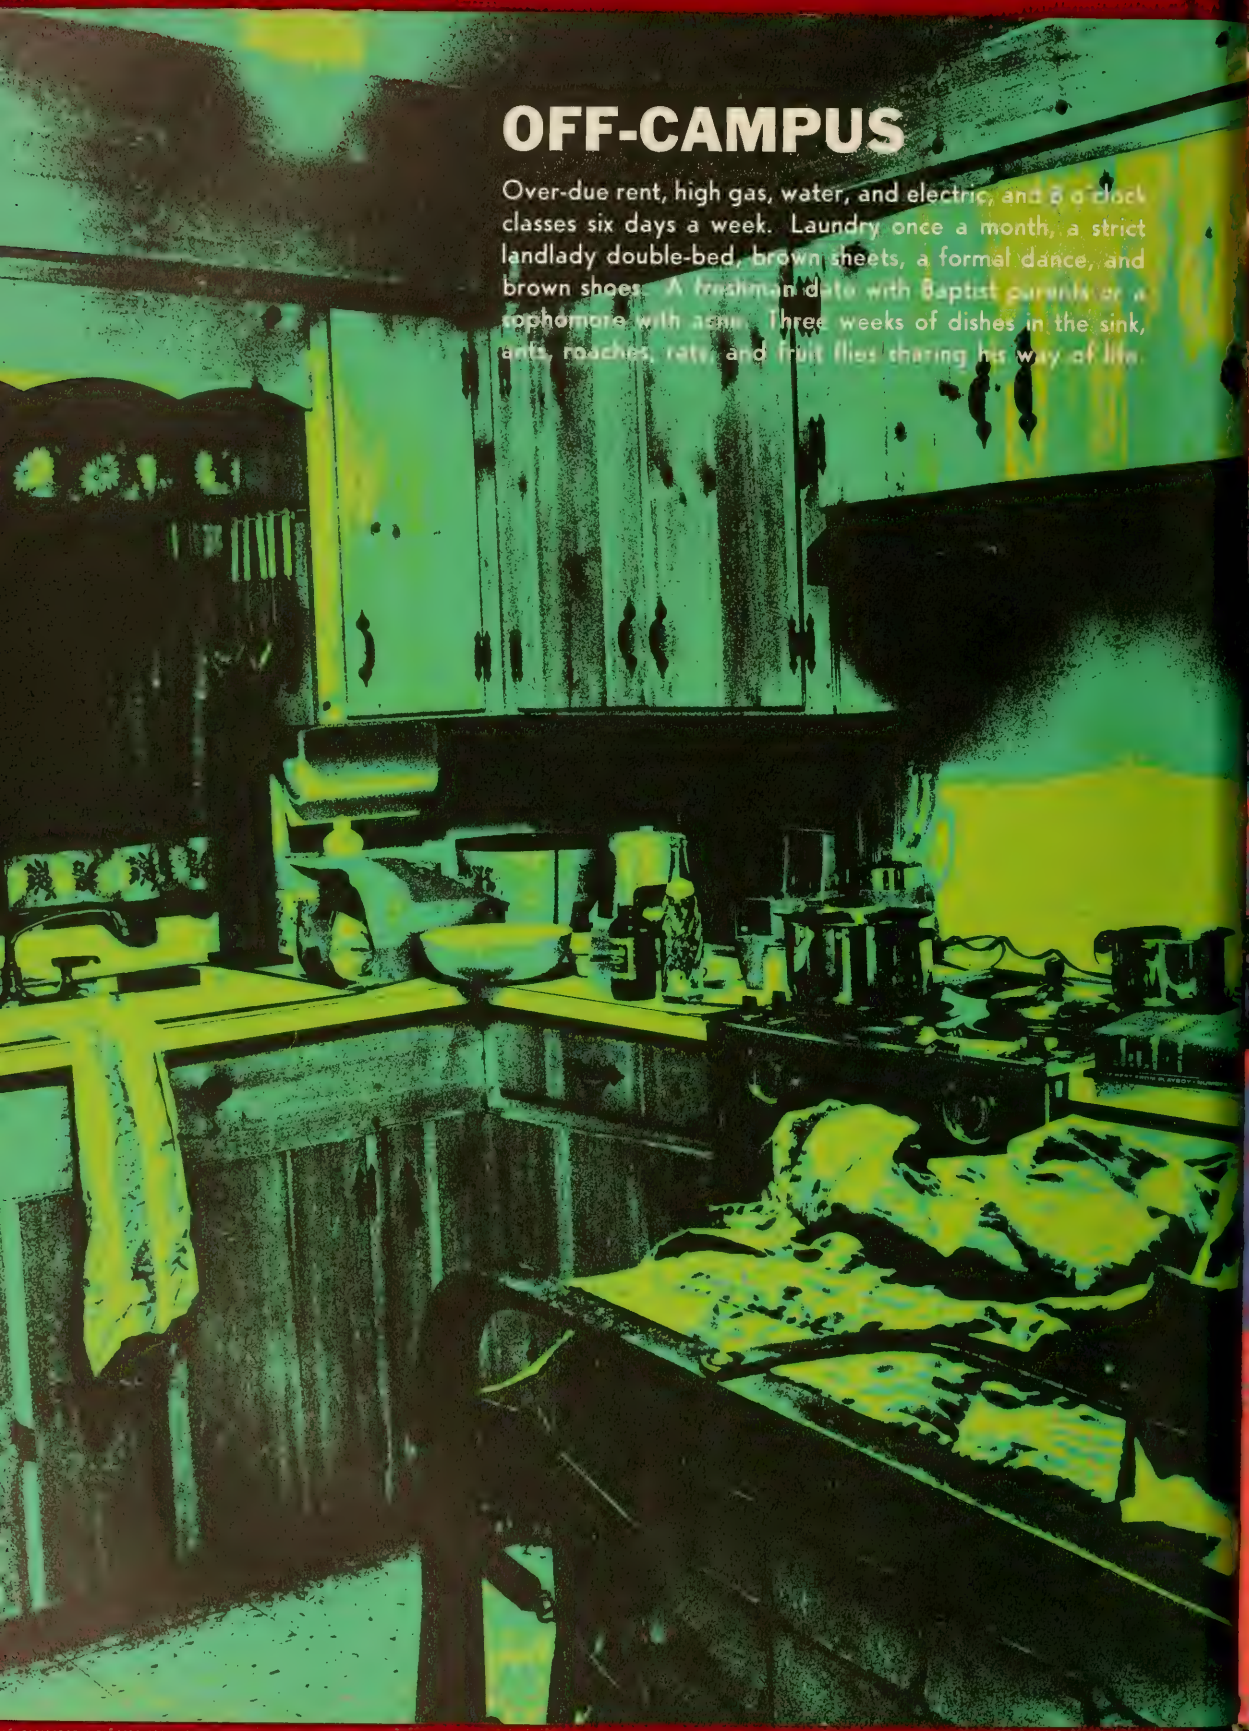
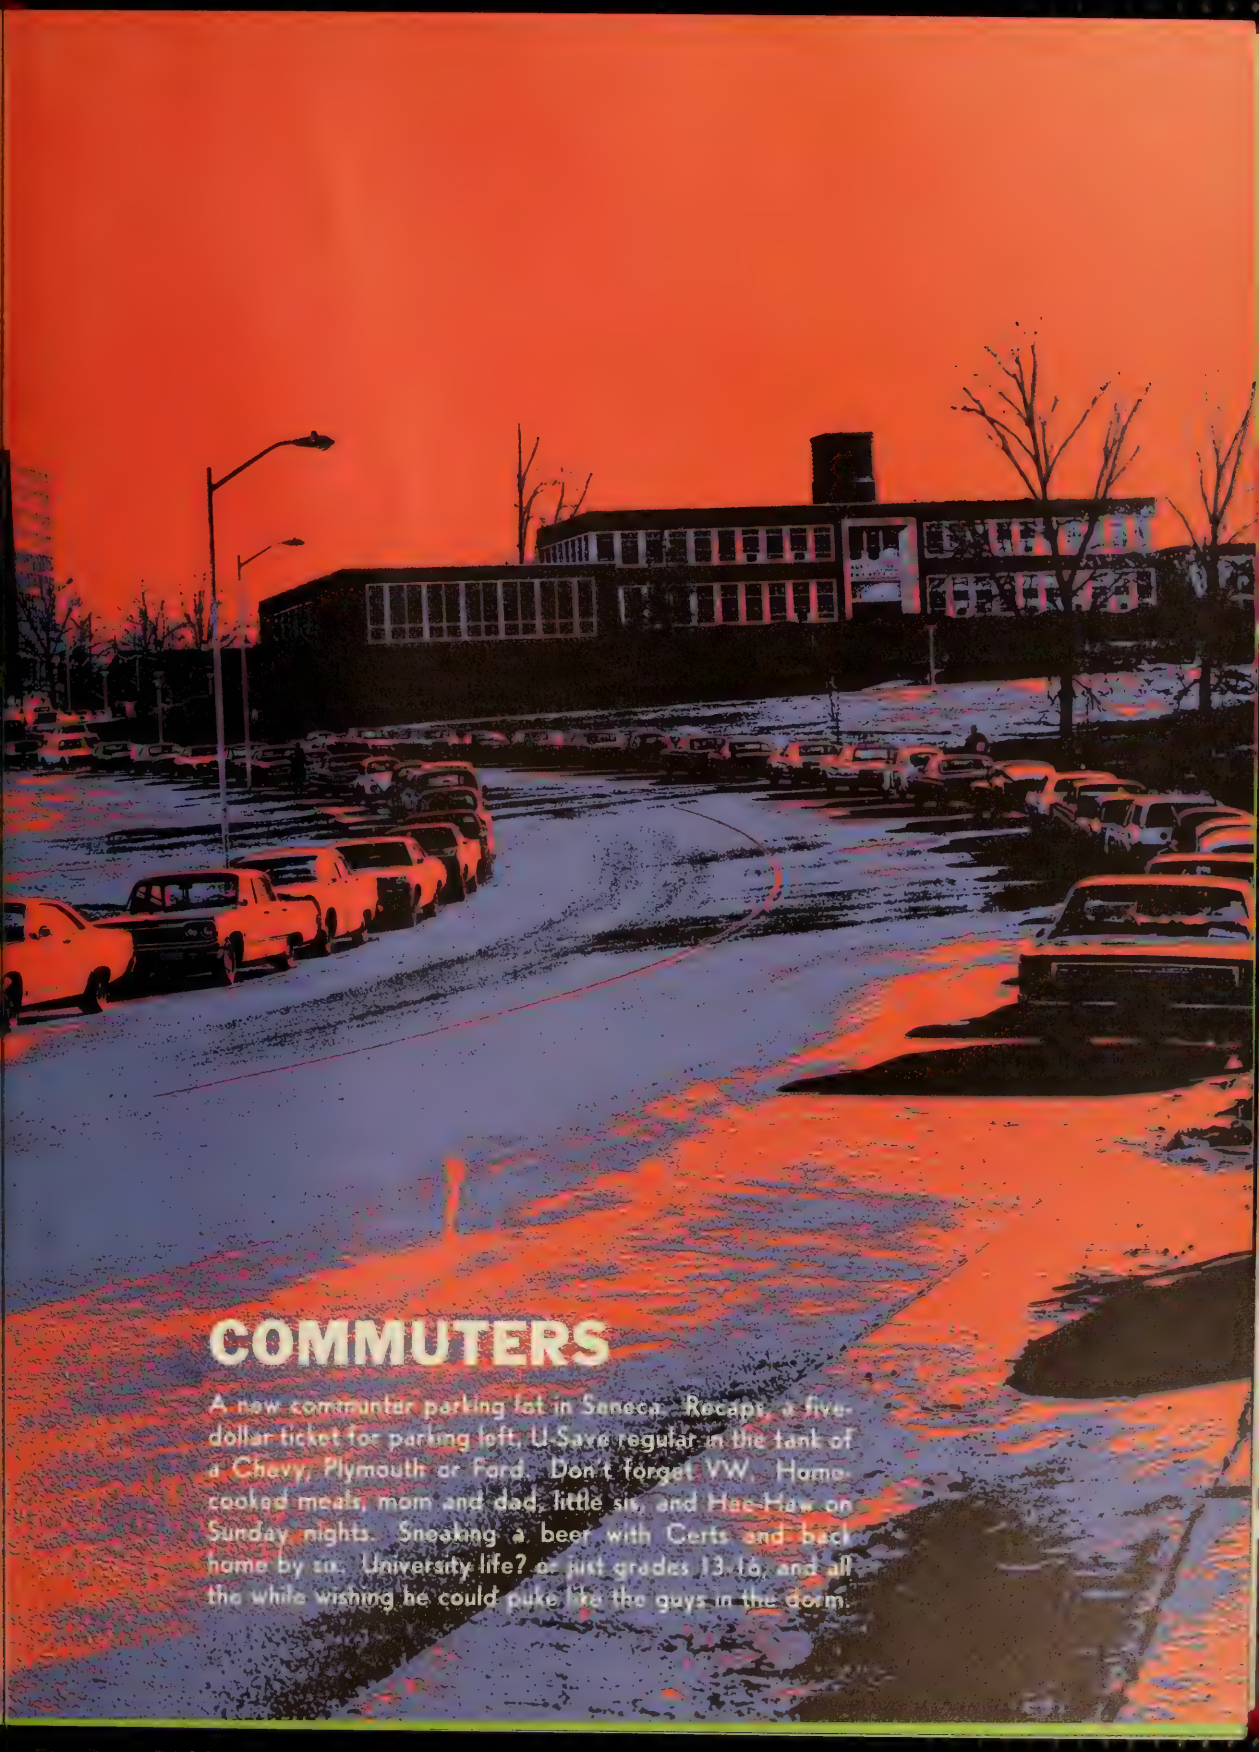
Love,
Kathy



OFF-CAMPUS

Over-due rent, high gas, water, and electric, and 8 o'clock classes six days a week. Laundry once a month, a strict landlady double-bed, brown sheets, a formal dance, and brown shoes. A freshman date with Baptist parents or a sophomore with asthma. Three weeks of dishes in the sink, ants, roaches, rats, and fruit flies sharing his way of life.



COMMUTERS

A new commuter parking lot in Seneca. Recaps, a five-dollar ticket for parking left, U-Save regular in the tank of a Chevy, Plymouth or Ford. Don't forget VW. Home-cooked meals, mom and dad, little sis, and Hee-Haw on Sunday nights. Sneaking a beer with Certs and back home by six. University life? or just grades 13-16, and all the while wishing he could puke like the guys in the dorm.

MARRIED

An informal survey conducted by TAPS disclosed that:

2% of all married students own twenty or more yards of dental floss
17% are used as "blanket permission" references
98% own double beds
50% cut class every twenty-eight days
50% frequent the bars every twenty-eight days
76% buy Vicks Vaporub by mistake
32% buy it on purpose
38% married for convenience
6% are voyeurs
42% eat in bed
76% brush their teeth after meals
50% are ambidextrous
50% have no opinion
587% have been married at least once

THE CLEMSON STUDENT

HOW IT WORKS

"You are the most intelligent freshman class ever to enter Clemson University."
Rat season
Football
Basketball
Baseball
Soccer
Rugby
Tennis
so much depends upon balls
"We have your best interest in mind."
Classically effective student government
ever more classical apathy to a never changing graduation speech
a bespectacled man in jogging trunks
shaking your hand says:
"Congratulations
32772. You done good, son."
And out of the ashes
rises the apparition of the great Buzzard back to haunt our Alma Mater. And as the sun slowly sinks in the west,
we see our hero and heroin calling into the distant purple hills.
The Clemson Gentleman.
Heritage. Tradition,
Status Quo.
Tomorrow's leader.
A man who needs no introduction.
A member in good standing of the Great Silent
Whatchamacallit?

HOWARD

After thirty years and 165 victories, it ended on a rainy, dreary afternoon in December. Frank Howard, who for thirty years personified the Clemson Gentleman image as perhaps no other person ever has, retired from coaching. "Need some new blood in heah," said Howard.

HOOTIE

The Transfusion was completed a week later. Hootie Ingram, an unknown assistant coach from Arkansas, will be Howard's successor. New ideas, with new offenses and new defenses will be forthcoming. Only 36 years old, Ingram exudes a Spartan image which has long been absent.

CLEMSON INTERFRATERNITY

REGGIE HARGROVE President
JAMES PEEPLES Vice-President
DON ALEXANDER Secretary
THOMAS WRIGHT Treasurer

Nationals are here! The long awaited event finally materialized in the Fall with the IFC serving as coordinator between the national and local fraternities. Now that Clemson fraternities have all the national advantage, the IFC expects rapid growth. A strong indication of this growth was given by the overwhelming success of holding a fall and a winter rush. The IFC also sponsors competition among the campus fraternities in various phases of college life, such as scholarship, sports, Homecoming, and Greek Week. The annual Christmas party for underprivileged children was one of the service projects undertaken during the year. The Inter Fraternity Council will continue to do its part to make Clemson a better university.

CLEMSON INTERSORORITY COUNCIL

1969-1970—A great year and an active year for the Clemson Panhellenic Council, formerly the Intersorority Council. September was the launching date for looking into national sororities. Meetings were buzzing with talk of Greek letter organizations, visitation schedules, and our rules for national visitation. The result of our efforts combined with the hours of work by the individual groups was three top national sororities in time for Rush 1970. A hectic semester had seen its reward.

Having discovered that a week and a half was too long for rush, the period was shortened this year to five days. Also, the rules for parties and silence period were more definitely defined and more strictly enforced.

Also, this year an attempt was made to lessen the rivalry among the three sororities. The council sponsored a pre-rush party first semester and a candlelighting ceremony right before giving out bids, which helped us to present a united front to rushees. The most important thing this year was to GO GREEK!

ALPHA ZETA

The year 1970 marks the 40th anniversary of the South Carolina Chapter of Alpha Zeta, founded on April 19, 1930, as the 38th Chapter of Alpha Zeta. Clemson University has the only chapter in the state.

The fraternity is a national, honorary Agricultural fraternity with objectives to foster higher standards of scholarship, character, and leadership; to strive for unity of action and accomplishment of ideals; to render service to the student and agricultural divisions, and to promote the profession of Agriculture. Members are selected from students in Agriculture and Biological Sciences possessing high qualities of scholarship, leadership, and character.

Alpha Zeta undertakes several social and service functions throughout the year, highlighted by an annual banquet in the spring.

ALPHA TAU ALPHA

The Kappa Chapter of Alpha Tau Alpha is Clemson University's National Professional Agricultural Education Fraternity. Members are invited to join on a basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and outstanding achievement in the field of Agricultural Education. The purpose of the fraternity is to develop a true professional spirit among teachers and teacher trainees in Vocational Agricultural Education, and to foster a fraternal spirit among its members.

Alpha Tau Alpha's activities include a program designed to increase interest of Agricultural Educational students in teaching Vocational Agriculture and the awarding of a scholarship medal to the senior graduating in Agricultural Education with the highest scholastic average.

GAMMA ALPHA MU

Gamma Alpha Mu, Clemson's honor fraternity for writers, this year celebrates its thirty-fifth birthday. Founded largely through the efforts of the late John D. Lane, a professor of English who was widely known as Clemson's "one man school of journalism," Gamma Alpha Mu claims among its members some of the university's most distinguished alumni, particularly journalists and educators. Open to all students, new members are selected yearly on the basis of works submitted and revived by a board of Clemson alumni with distinguished literary achievements. Class standing or major course has no bearing on membership. The organization presents an award annually to the best student publication on campus and attempts to recognize and encourage outstanding writers in the student body in both journalism and creative writing. Members include not only members of the Tiger and Chronicle staffs, but also many other independent writers on campus.

BLUE KEY

The membership of Blue Key National Fraternity at Clemson University is comprised of students representing many of the numerous and varied areas of student activity. Fraternal bonds within the fraternity remain strong as its members, through mutual cooperation, organize various activities.

Blue Key has as its major project each year the planning, directing, and coordinating of Tigerama, the student variety production. This production is traditionally presented on the eve of Homecoming each year. Proceeds received from Tigerama finance Blue Key plans to sponsor a scholarship program for upperclassmen.

Throughout each school year, members of Blue Key assume new responsibilities and projects. The fraternity is presently organizing the establishment of a plaque which will indicate the results of the Clemson-Carolina game for the first date of this match to the present.

GAMMA BETA PHI

This year the members of Gamma Beta Phi have strived to create an active organization to provide service and leadership to Clemson University.

During the fall semester members gathered for several parties and social events. A successful drop-in and pledge season highlighted the semester. Pledge season ended with formal initiation and a banquet.

The Gamma Beta Phi Society is well represented in all phases of campus life. Members play an active part in various other campus organizations—the Arnold Air Society, Counterguerrillas, Tae Kwon Doe Club, WSBF Staff, and the Tiger Band.

To be eligible for membership in Gamma Beta Phi, a student must maintain an overall Grade Point Ratio of 2.7. Students meeting this requirement are invited to become active members of Gamma Beta Phi.

MU BETA PSI

Mu Beta Psi was established as a national music fraternity in 1928 on the campus of North Carolina State College in Raleigh, North Carolina. Shortly therafter a chapter was founded at Clemson College, Clemson, South Carolina.

The purpose of the fraternity is two fold:

1. To promote a better fellowship among the musicians of the various musical organizations and among the musicians of various colleges.

2. To advance music to its proper place as an educational subject.

The brothers of Mu Beta Psi play an active role in Clemson's Tiger Band and University Glee Clubs.

This year Delta Chapter produced "The Clemson Tradition," a long playing album with favorite Clemson marches along with the annual show, "Spring Sounds" which gives the students a chance to express themselves.

ORDER OF ATHENA

Order of Athena Honorary Sorority, organized in the spring of 1968 by the brothers of Blue Key as their sister society, is designed to honor those women students who have contributed to Clemson University. Members are chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and service.

In the spring of 1969, Order of Athena sponsored the organization of a freshman honor society for women, based on ideals similar to those of Blue Key and the Order of Athena. The women of Order of Athena aide Blue Key in the sponsoring of some of their functions, as well as providing service of their own. The Greek goddess of wisdom, Athena, is symbolic of the goals strived for by this organization.

PHI PSI

Phi Psi has had a busy spring and fall semester. Professor Thomas Campbell was named Man of the Year in Textiles of South Carolina, and Mr. Robert S. Small of Dan Rivers Mills along with Mr. Francis Townsend of the Graniteville Company were given honorary memberships. The fraternity went to the national convention in Princeton, New Jersey, and competed with other chapters in the presentation of educational textiles display. The brothers brought home a first place trophy. Eight new members have been taken into Phi Psi and have helped in a textile student recruiting project. The brothers also assisted in guided tours on high school student visitation days. The future holds a national convention at Calloway Gardens and the naming of a "Textile Man of the Year" and much work for textiles at Clemson.

PHI ETA SIGMA

Phi Eta Sigma is a national honor fraternity that strives to recognize the outstanding scholastic achievement of freshmen. Unlike many other honoraries that judge eligibility on leadership and scholarship, Phi Eta Sigma membership is based solely on scholastic performance. A minimum grade-point ratio of 3.5 accumulated during either the first semester or the first two semesters serves as a base requirement for admission. This year, as in the past, Phi Eta Sigma sponsored freshman achievement tests in both English and Mathematics, and the winners were recognized with special awards on Honors and Awards Day. At the same time, the senior with the highest grade-point ratio was given a Phi Eta Sigma key. The highlight of the year came during April when Phi Eta Sigma had its annual banquet in honor of the new initiates.

PHI KAPPA PHI

Phi Kappa Phi is a national organization with the primary objective of recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all fields of study. Membership in this organization is considered the highest scholastic honor that a Clemson student can obtain.

Among the undergraduates, seniors with cumulative grade-point ratio of 3.2 and second semester juniors with a cumulative grade-point ratio of 3.5 are eligible for membership. The new members are formally welcomed into Phi Kappa Phi each fall and spring with an initiation service and banquet.

Now celebrating its thirty-first anniversary on the Clemson campus and continuing the fulfillment of its motto—"The love of learning rules the world"—Phi Kappa Phi also sponsored an essay contest, "The Pursuit of Learning," and the winner of the $25 award was recognized at the annual Honors and Awards Day presentation.

TAU BETA PI

Tau Beta Pi, founded at LeHigh University in 1885, is the nation's oldest engineering honor society. South Carolina Alpha, the local chapter, was installed in 1928 with the purpose of recognizing in a fitting manner those undergraduates in engineering who have demonstrated their superior scholarship and exemplary character.

Membership in Tau Beta Pi represents the highest mark of achievement for an engineering student, and is an honor which is universally respected in the engineering profession.

Members are selected from those men and women who rank in at least the upper fifth of the senior engineering enrollment and the upper eighth of the junior engineering enrollment.

Tau Beta Pi also strives to encourage a spirit of liberal culture through sponsorship of essay contests, a slide rule course, academic awards, and talks to the engineering freshmen each year.

TAU SIGMA DELTA

Tau Sigma Delta, the national honor fraternity in architecture and the allied arts, was first represented at Clemson University in the spring of 1965. Membership is based on high academic standing and professional promise. The requirements for membership into the Phi Chapter of Tau Sigma Delta at Clemson are somewhat higher than the national requirements, making this a more selective group.

Although it is basically an honor fraternity, Tau Sigma Delta has endeavored to take on a limited number of projects that stimulate understanding and appreciation of both architectural education and practice.

A slide show, concerning itself with all phases of the architectural student's life, was offered to all prospective state high school students.

TIGER BROTHERHOOD

Tiger Brotherhood, born during the cadet walkouts in the twenties, celebrated its 40th anniversary this year. During its early years, Tiger Brotherhood assumed the role of cadet government, making suggestions, holding discussions, and representing the student viewpoint in matters affecting cadet life.

Today Tiger Brotherhood, still embracing the same basic tenents as established by its founders, promotes high standards of social and ethical conduct, while recognizing in its members an earnest devotion to Clemson. Tiger Brotherhood, a cross-sectional representation of the Clemson community, provides a viable, flexible, and continuing forum for ideas and unending service to Clemson. Students, faculty, and staff all work within the bonds of brotherhood to champion a closer relationship.

XI SIGMA PI

Xi Sigma Pi is the honorary organization for students majoring in forestry. The main objective of Xi Sigma Pi is the promotion of close unity between future foresters sharing a common interest in personal achievement.

Membership is based on the individual's grade-point ratio, leadership ability, interest and participation in curricula, and extra-curricular activities. The initiation for new members lasts for a week, closing with a formal ceremony.

Each year the fraternity presents a scholarship recognition award to the deserving sophomore, junior, and senior in forestry. The members also contribute to the "Clemson Forester," the annual publication of Clemson forestry students. Each year Xi Sigma Pi increases its membership as the forestry curriculum at Clemson University expands.

PROFESSIONS

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF TEXTILE CHEMISTS AND COLORISTS

The Student Chapter of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists is a professional organization for those persons interested in the chemistry of fibers, dyestuffs and adjuncts of textile applications. Since the AATCC was founded in 1921, its basic goal has been to provide a formum for the dissemination of knowledge concerning textile chemistry for the professional development of its members.

The main activities of the AATCC include speakers from industry, plant trips, and a steak supper each semester. It is thought that the various speakers and plant trips bring the students closer to the realities of the Textile industry. The members also come in contact with the leaders of the textile industry fostering relationships that may result in better jobs on graduation.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF TEXTILE TECHNOLOGY

The student chapter of the American Association for Textile Technology provides textile students with a means of becoming associated with the organization of the National AATT and advancing its goals. The student chapter of AATT was organized at Clemson in 1962. The purpose of AATT is to keep students informed on current developments in the textile industry. The purpose is accomplished through having speakers and taking field trips. Membership is open to all undergraduates with majors in textiles or textile science or a major concentration in textiles. AATT helps with the construction of a homecoming display each year and is active during high school day in Sirrine Hall. The highlight of the year is the now famous student-faculty softball game.

AMERICAN CERAMIC SOCIETY

The American Ceramic Society is an organization composed of students majoring in Ceramic Engineering. The society holds at least one regularly scheduled meeting each month.

The purpose of ACS is to provide the students with insight into industrial application of Ceramic technology. This is accomplished by bringing in speakers from various fields of Ceramic Engineering. These speakers include plant managers, process engineers, and quality control engineers. Furthermore, the society takes several plant trips each year. This gives the student a chance to see a ceramic operation in progress.

The society has several social events during the year. At the end of each year, a banquet is held to honor outstanding students.

AGRICULTURAL AND BIO-SCIENCE COUNCIL

The Ag.-Bio. Science Council is composed of representatives from the various departments in the College of Agriculture and Biological Sciences. They meet together to plan and participate in activities that serve their departments. In serving in an advisory capacity to the Dean of Agriculture and Biological Sciences, the Council this year sought to maintain communication between the Administration and the many organizations that the Ag-Bio Council represents.

The Council sponsored social events as well as meaningful activities. A square dance in the fall was held as the big entertainment for the first semester. Guest speakers and High School Visitation Day were activities for second semester. By these functions the Council seeks to promote interest in agriculture and the biological sciences.

AG-ECON CLUB

The Agricultural Economics Club of Clemson University promotes fellowship between students and staff members of Agricultural Economics. This organization familiarizes its members with current agricultural and economic problems and makes available all information and advice within this field.

The club sponsors field trips of interest to the students; in the past trips have been made to Atlanta, Charleston, and Greenville. The club also presents various speakers to its members throughout the year. Perhaps one of the most important projects this organization sponsors is the preparation of a news bulletin devoted to encouraging high school seniors to attend Clemson and major in Agricultural Economics and to promote the department's graduate program.

Social activities of this organization include a homecoming display and a banquet for the members, their dates, and staff members.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY

The student chapter of the American Chemical Society is open to all students majoring in chemistry or chemical engineering. Numbered among the yearly activities of the organization are picnics, field trips, and service projects. The American Chemical Society sponsors a tutoral program for students enrolled in freshman chemistry. All projects are financed through the yearly sale of laboratory aprons and safety goggles, thereby eliminating the need for collection of local dues while promoting the use of safety equipment.

At the bimonthly meetings members hear local chemists speak on various topics in chemistry and science in general. This year, a steak picnic held by the Society gave members a chance to become more closely acquainted with faculty and staff of the Chemistry Department.

AMERICAN DAIRY SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

The Clemson Chapter of American Dairy Science Association kicked off this year's activities with a hamburger cook-out for members and faculty. Later during first semester, the club-sponsored dairy cattle judging team placed well in the Southern region contest and later participated in the National Dairy Cattle Contest in Ohio. The club was represented in Miss Homecoming pageant by Angie Fowler, and Barbara San Miguel sponsored them in the Miss Clemson University Contest. Angie Fowler was also selected Clemson Dairy Princess by the club. At Christmas the club brought a bit of cheer to some aged citizens in a Clemson area rest home.

Highlighting second semester were: a joint meeting with the University of Georgia's Dairy Club, a student-faculty softball game, and presentation of a Dairy Achievement Award.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers promotes the interest of the students in agricultural engineering, emphasizing professional development. The South Carolina Branch has set an enviable record for itself, placing third in the nation in its class in the annual Food and Industrial Equipment Award, and having an immediate past president of the Southeastern Regional Council of Student Branches of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

The branch supports itself with a field project each year. This includes planting, cultivating, spraying, and harvesting a sixteen acre plot of soybeans. This year all work was done by branch members. A field trip, sponsored each year by the branch, involves visits to different businesses which are particularly concerned with Agricultural Engineering as a profession.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

The student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was founded on the Clemson campus in 1947. Membership in the student chapter is restricted to chemical engineering students who have attained at least a sophomore rating. The purpose of the AIChE is to further the interests of the students in the realm of Chemical Engineering and to promote professionalism. This is accomplished by having guest speakers from industry lecture at bimonthly meetings of the chapter. The senior members of the AIChE participate in numerous plant trips to gain firsthand information about the chemical industry.

The AIChE also engages in social activities. The chapter constructs a display in front of Earle Hall on Homecoming weekend, and a party is given for members twice during the year.

IOTA LAMBDA SIGMA

Iota Lambda Sigma is a national organization dedicated to the promotion of Industrial Education by special recognition of high scholarship, professional training and the creation and maintaining of a close fraternal bond within the profession. It is an honorary-professional organization, selecting its membership from Clemson majors in Industrial Education as well as from professional workers in the field.

Iota Lambda Sigma was chartered on the Clemson campus in 1930, making it the second oldest professional fraternity on campus.

Each semester new members undergo an initiation period of three weeks, followed by a banquet in their honor. Other yearly activities include the making of plaques for other campus organizations, projects for surrounding communities, Homecoming displays, picnics, and seminars for persons interested in Industrial Education.

SIGMA PSI NU

Sigma Psi Nu, the first organization of its kind at Clemson, has as its purpose furthering the brotherhood of the Clemson University swimming team and providing a recruiting and scholarship means for incoming freshmen who show potential as assets to the team.

Probably the most important function of the club is the annual Freshman Drop-In, which is held in September to help freshman swimmers adjust to their new environment. Also, each year the club contacts potential college swimmers still in high school. These high school athletes are invited to visit the Clemson campus and to consider it as the college of their choice.

ASCE

The Clemson University student chapter of the American Association of Civil Engineers was established in order to provide opportunities for the students in civil engineering to make professional acquaintances and associations.

A number of speakers in the various fields of civil engineering highlighted the engineering phase of ASCE this year. Working many hours on a Homecoming display, editing an annual student publication, and participating in the Carolina Conference with other ASCE societies rounded out the civil engineers' calendar year.

The functions and field trips this year, as always, were planned to best acquaint and interest civil engineering students with the various phases of their field.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a national engineering society dedicated to the advancement of the engineering profession. Membership is open to any mechanical engineering student in good standing.

ASME students participate in such contests as design contests, the Bendix Award, and technical paper presentations. The Clemson chapter holds the coveted Bendix Award which is presented for the best organization, programs and student participation. Members also take an active part in such activities as the Homecoming display, field trips, and the annual regional student conference.

The ASME is a very useful outlet for students. The club brings together all mechanical engineering students from freshmen to graduates. Many friendships and working relations are developed that will be of value after graduation.

BLOCK AND BRIDLE CLUB

The activities of the Block and Bridle Club are oriented toward the field of animal science and pursuing its many phases through club participation. The annual barbecue was held at the Clemson-Georgia football game. The funds from the annual barbecues were used this summer for the erection of a livestock arena. This arena will be used for livestock shows, classroom work, and club activities. The club also sponsored the Livestock Judging Team's trips to Memphis, Atlanta, and Chicago. In the spring, the club activities include a barbecue and the annual Little International Show and Judging Contest. All club members have an opportunity to participate in the Little International and 4-H and FFA members are invited to compete in the junior contest.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MILITARY ENGINEERS

The national organization of the Society for the Advancement of Military Engineers at Clemson University provides a unifying agent for the many diverse fields of engineering and engineering construction. The emphasis of SAME is on engineering operations which will be of specific value within the military. The Clemson student chapter helps engineering students broaden their overall knowledge and education in the wide fields of engineering. The student is exposed to everyday situations of engineers through a number of slide presentations, films and field trips. The field trips provide the best means of familiarization with most members showing a high interest in these operations. Recent field trips have seen Fort Belvoir, Virginia and Cape Kennedy, Florida. SAME is open to all male students.

DELTA SIGMA NU

With two major constitutional amendments this year, Delta Sigma Nu increased its outreach to include freshmen and those students interested in medicine who had previously not retained the 2.5 gpr. requirement. After pledge initiation, the enrollment included some 99 members. This year, members enjoyed increased activity through both educational and social events. Medical films and study groups, guest speakers, trips to medical facilities, and several parties all helped to instill a new spirit of brotherhood and pre-medical education. Dr. W. L. Hunter of the Medical College of South Carolina was one of the several guests to address the club. The fraternity trip to Emory Medical school in Atlanta gave members a firsthand look at the life of a medical student and hospital facilities.

CLEMSON 4-H CLUB

Established in 1952, the purpose of the 4-H Club is to establish closer relationships among the students and faculty members, and to train its members for leadership. The original members were students who had been 4-H members in high school. These students recognized the need to maintain their social and service contacts with students and alumni having similar interest.

Miss Patsy Hill, an elementary education major, sponsored the club in the Homecoming Queen contest. Miss Willa Stevenson, an RPA major, sponsored the club in the Miss Clemson University contest.

The 4-H club helped the Ag-Bio Council with an open square dance for students each semester. They also helped the Inter-Fraternity Council with their Christmas party for underprivileged children in the Clemson community.

FOOD SCIENCE CLUB

Through active participation in club events, the members of Clemson's Food Science Club have the opportunity to meet outstanding leaders in the nation's food industry. These undergraduate students express their interest within their major field by attending regional Institute of Food Technologists meetings where they can share common interests with other students from the University of Georgia and Tennessee.

As in the past, the club members cook, package, and sell smoked turkeys around the holiday season to earn money for the club's funds. Other projects include a joint faculty-student barbecue held at the beginning of the year to welcome new members to the club and student displays presented in the P and A building to represent their club's work.

FORESTRY CLUB

The Clemson Forestry Club prides itself in forming a closer relationship among the forestry students and promoting interest in forestry within the University. Membership is open to all students in the department of Forestry at Clemson University.

The club athletes participate avidly in all intramural sports and have a good time in competing with other clubs. The club also enjoyed working together on the annual homecoming display which made a good showing in keeping with tradition. Members of the Forestry Club help finance their activities by cutting and selling firewood. As well as participating annually in the conclave of the Association of Southern Forestry Clubs, the club publishes The Clemson Forester to inform all interested persons of department activities.

ASSOCIATED GENERAL CONTRACTORS

The Clemson Student Chapter of the Associated General Contractors received their charter in November, 1968 from regional AGC officials from Charlotte. In its second year of existence, AGC has united its Building Construction majors with close support from the local contractors of the Piedmont Association.

Their programs have included a variety of speakers and field trips relevant to building construction. As a special service to seniors, the members of AGC have set up a system of scheduling interviews with various firms.

The AGC hopes through its program to better prepare and inform members to make them successful in the field of Building Construction.

GEOLOGY CLUB

As Clemson's newest club, the Geology Club has completed a very successful year. Our membership is open to all Clemson students who are majoring in Geology or other interested students.

Our meetings are highlighted by guest speakers from all over South Carolina. Along with informative talks our speakers show slides or movies from various field trips. On one occasion we were privileged to have Dr. G. M. Haselton show his slides from the Arctic Circle, where he has been doing field study. Dr. Hinson, a biologist from Bob Jones University, spoke on the controversial topic of evolution.

Our members make practical use of classroom studies by taking field trips to such states as Texas and Colorado during the summer. The slides from these trips prove rewarding.

HORTICULTURE CLUB

The Clemson University Horticulture Club enjoys the seniority and prestige that accompany the honor of being one of first clubs of its type in this region and also in the nation. The club, founded in 1946, was the brainchild of Dr. T. L. Senn.

Since its beginning, one of the main functions of the club has been to acquaint horticulture students, and other interested individuals, with the importance of the role of horticulture and its vital relationship to the world's ever increasing problem of providing the food and natural beauty needed to sustain this planet's growing millions.

Functioning also as a social organization, the club's agenda includes two or more social functions plus a student-faculty banquet, along with various club financing projects.

KAPPA ALPHA SIGMA

This year, Kappa Alpha Sigma, better known as the Agronomy Club, has had one of its most active years. Besides the bi-monthly meetings, the club puts out a newsletter called "The Cornshucker". This newsletter is sent to every member, various agronomy clubs around the state, and especially to all old Kappa Alpha Sigma members to keep them in touch with the club's activities and old classmates.

Every year members attend the National Convention of the Student Activities Subdivision of the American Society of Agronomy and participate in the National Soils Judging contest.

Kappa Alpha Sigma also enjoys trips to other schools set up on the reciprocal field trip program. One of the last things the club participates in is the banquet held in March at which graduating seniors are the guests of honor.

INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS

Striving to better the Engineering Department, the Clemson University branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers unites student electrical engineers both professionally and socially.

This year, in an attitude to help scholarship, IEEE sponsored a tutoring program for all electrical engineering courses. In addition, projects for the club included selling lab kits for the electrical engineering laboratories and sample kits for the experimenter.

The engineers, in the true spirit of homecoming, combine their talents to produce an electrical display each year. Also, the group enjoys an opening picnic to start the year off right.

Field trips prove to be an interesting and enjoyable break from classroom studies and keep open communications with the electronics industry. A research paper is presented to the national branch each year.

POULTRY SCIENCE

The Poultry Science Club of Clemson University is a non-profit organization dedicated to the purpose of exploring new areas of learning for the Poultry Science majors and any students who are interested in the poultry industry.

The activities of the club include sponsoring a barbecue at one of the home football games each year. The proceeds from this go toward sending members to the Southeastern Poultry and Egg Convention held in Atlanta. Another activity this year was the killing of turkeys for Thanksgiving and Christmas. These turkeys were sold and the proceeds are going toward sending graduate students to scientific meetings. Also, during the year the club invited in several outside speakers who talked on different aspects of the poultry science industry.

RECREATION AND PARKS ADMINISTRATION CLUB

The Recreation and Parks Administration Club was formed by interested students that were majoring in Recreation and Park Administration in an effort to establish a closer fellowship. The program has consisted of many interesting speakers and the presentation of many worth while projects for the community and surrounding areas. These projects have provided the members with a bird's eye view of what to expect from their profession.

Within this school year the club has provided many new opportunities that offered campus-wide participation. Some activities were Intramurals and participation in the homecoming displays, plus various community projects.

Members of the Clemson University Pre-Veterinary Club can well boast of a fine year. This year the Pre-Vet Club was highlighted by various activities which gave to its members both insight and interest into the Veterinary profession. The year was launched with its annual hamburger cookout for new members.

Subsequent meetings included the club's traditional trips to the Livestock Poultry Health Center at Pontiac, S. C. and to the School of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Georgia. Also, programs during the year featured several speakers and films.

Second semester activities included the visit of former Clemson students who are now attending the Vet School at Georgia. The activities of the club were brought to a close at end of year banquet at which new officers were installed.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

The organization of the Society for the Advancement of Agriculture Education at Clemson University is a valuable instrument for all future agriculture teachers. The objectives of SAAE are to develop leadership, motivate scholarship, and facilitate social development. Educational activities include conducting student exchange programs; providing high school students with occupational information; and administering a senior scholarship fund. The major social functions sponsored by the society consist of a fall cookout, spring banquet, and both a formal and informal initiation. An annual project is a chicken barbecue at a home football game.

Educational films and agriculturally oriented speakers are on the programs for the regular monthly meetings in efforts to promote vocational agriculture.

SIGMA TAU EPSILON

Sigma Tau Epsilon is Clemson's honorary society for the college of Liberal Arts and Physical and Mathematical Sciences. Membership is open to all juniors and seniors with a 3.0 G.P.R.

Sigma Tau Epsilon was founded in 1938 to recognize honor students, promote fellowship, and to promote the pursuit of knowledge through integrity, creation, and by force of example. Although these remain to be important purposes of the fraternity, many more have formed.

According to changing times, the importance of fellowship has been brought out in Sigma Tau Epsilon, 1969. Many of its meetings are social gatherings, with the hope of stimulation through contact in social situations. However, Sigma Tau Epsilon does indeed serve Clemson University. Plans for a free tutoring service have been undertaken. It is hoped that this service will become a tradition.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT

The Society for the Advancement of Management, the recognized national professional organization of managers in industry, commerce, government and education, and the pioneer in management philosophy, has been dedicated to the advancement of management. SAM offers many diversified activities such as panel discussions, plant tours and career conferences. These activities in association with business executives provide students with an insight into the actual practice of the management profession and further the growth of all students. Regardless of their academic major SAM benefits the students by stimulating their thinking, widening their knowledge, broadening their outlook and developing an understanding of the problems of business and an appreciation of the free, private, competitive enterprise system. SAM has been a valuable supplement to all classrooms.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST

Campus Crusade for Christ was founded by Dr. William R. Bright in 1951 when nine of the starting first string football players of the University of California at Los Angeles became excited about the person of Christ. From that group, Crusade has expanded to over forty countries around the world and is found today on about half of the three thousand campuses in America.

Crusade's goals are to know Christ and to make him known. Their members share a personal relationship with the person of Christ, and this relationship is presented here at Clemson through their biweekly meetings entitled "College Life." Group activities are many and varied. Members enjoy weekend trips and parties and have been active in Tigerama, placing third place last Fall and second place two years ago. Another major Crusade project which provides campus entertainment is bringing The New Folk singers, who have sung on campus the past three years.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Clemson University Canterbury Association, while it exists primarily for the Episcopal students at Clemson, is open to members of all religions. The group's purpose is to promote friendly communication among its members and to participate in services to the community—local and world-wide.

Under the leadership of Rev. Roland Whitmire the club furnishes acolytes, several students sing in the choir, and one is the organist for the main Sunday service. Joint worship services are held each Sunday with the Clemson Wesley Foundation.

The major activities involve the students of the Tamassee D.A.R. School. Twice a year the club takes Clemson ice cream to the students, and it hosts them to a football game, with dinner and supper. To support club activities, members work the concession stand at the Clemson Theater.

CHESTER COUNTY CLUB

From its beginning, the Chester County Club has existed with one purpose—to serve our school through actions in Chester County.

The club won the league championship in the YMCA intramurals in the fall of 1969. Our excellent scrapbook is placed in the libraries of the county schools and in the county library to allow people to become familiar with some of the activities of the club members.

Each year the Chester County Clemson Club awards a scholarship to a deserving county graduate who plans to attend Clemson. Through the years the Danny Brice Memorial Scholarship has indicated to the people of Chester County that the club members are good representatives of the county.

CALHOUN FORENSICS SOCIETY

The Calhoun Forensics Society is the oldest student organization at Clemson. It has proudly represented Clemson in debate and other forensic competition. The debators and their advisors have compiled an impressive record over the years. The debate team participates in many Southeast tournaments and the annual ACC tournament. The society was enhanced by the establishment of the annual Calhoun Forensics Tournament in 1967 and debate scholarships in 1969. Hard work and enthusiasm characterize the Calhoun Forensics Society.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a national organization of professional, as well as amateur athletes who realize their great influence on the youth of the country and their responsibility to use this influence to guide others to Christ. The organization was started by a young coach who felt that since athletes did a great job of selling practically any product, they would do a good job of selling Christianity.

The Clemson chapter meets monthly, and current topics are discussed with respect to Christian principles in an effort to bring Christianity and everyday living together. A major activity of the members is speaking to different church, school, and social organizations.

GAMMA OMEGA PHI

Gamma Omega Phi is an honorary social fraternity. The membership is made up of outstanding leaders in the Clemson University Republican Club. The purpose of the organization is to promote brotherhood among the members and to provide a strong feeling of the unity in the University Republicans. The fraternity also provides social functions in order to have fun after work has been done.

The fraternity is basically an organization formed to assist in campaigns. The members take an active part in campaigns for Republican candidates.

The fraternity is at this time expanding onto other campuses. Through the state organization it is believed that this project will be successful and prove to be a unifying factor in the South Carolina College Republican movement.

The Newman Student Association is the official organization of Catholic students at Clemson. Membership is open to all interested Catholics and non-Catholics.

Regular meetings are held at Newman Hall next to St. Andrew's Church on Wednesday nights at seven o'clock. Newman Hall is open twenty-four hours a day. The programs, suggested by the students, are composed of intellectual and religious topics that are pertinent to today's problems. Dances and socials are also held at Newman Hall while the Newman Saints participate in the various school intramural programs.

Mass is offered on Thursday and Sunday at the student chapel.

The Newman Student Association was organized in 1940 through the endeavors of T. F. Feirney. Today, Father Arthur Mouser, C.S.P., is the Chaplain to Catholic students at Clemson.

PICKENS COUNTY CLUB

Pi Kappa Rho, the Pickens County Clemson Club, was founded in the fall of 1968 as an organization to promote the brotherhood of graduates from Pickens County high schools and serves both Clemson University and Pickens County.

The club conducted its first pledge season during the fall semester of 1969. Also during that semester, members participated in the "Clean up Pickens County" drive, gaining recognition for the club as well as serving the community. Pi Kappa Rho hopes to be a help and a uniting factor to Clemson students from Pickens County in coming years.

SOUTHERN STUDENT ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

The Clemson Southern Organizing Committee is a group of concerned students who have dedicated themselves to the proposition that there are serious problems here in Clemson, the South, and the nation and the world, and that these problems must be discussed and solved through the collective actions of students and others who are willing to give of themselves for the betterment of society.

The committee has sponsored educational projects, forums, the SUN (Student Union, Now) project, supported the Vietnam moratorium, and continuously worked with the Student Senate and the administration to bring about reforms in the university's educational and social atmosphere.

Radical changes in the status quo including the elimination of war, racism, poverty, and intolerance have been the major concerns of the members.

SENTIMENTAL JAZZMEN

Promoting good, modern music, The Sentimental Jazzmen have steadily built their reputation throughout the Southeast by successfully playing engagements such as college dances, conventions, beauty pageants, and high school junior-seniors. Our music is a blending of the "Big Band" concept with the "Sound" of the current era and has resulted in music that appeals to all age groups.

The 1969-1970 campaign was the best ever for the SJ's, the climax coming when Bob Hope stood in front of Clemson's Sentimental Jazzmen, and told a capacity crowd at Littlejohn Coliseum, "Just wait till I tell Les Brown that I took a Sentimental Journey with The Sentimental Jazzmen!" This was quite a tribute to a group of men who have given the Sentimental Jazzmen the smoothest sound at Clemson.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

The Young Democrats have been active on the Clemson Campus this year even though it has not been an election year. During the fall semester, the Young Democrats invited speakers to visit the Clemson Campus, their purpose being to inform the students and to answer any questions concerning policy and issues which were of interest to the students.

Regular weekly meetings provided valuable information to all members of the Young Democrats Club. Among the speakers presented at these meetings were Clemson University professors.

By organizing a lobby promoting immediate plans for a Student Union Building, the Young Democrats played a vital part in campus politics.

With new projects and activities in mind, the Young Democrats plan an even greater contribution to campus life in the future.

YMCA CABINET

The YMCA is a place filled with people concerned about their own individuality, their reactions to and interactions with others, their roles in the lives of others, and their function in the world. The core group which plans and organizes the "Y" activities is the "Y" Cabinet, which consists of interested students from all classes and curriculums of the University.

The YMCA Cabinet has experienced during the 1969-70 school year many memorable activities—the National YMCA Convention in St. Louis . . . Freshman Camp . . . Freshman Day Picnic . . . numerous college services . . . sports services . . . varied social services . . . and several community services.

The "Y" purpose, as determined by the Cabinet, is to "work toward an atmosphere favorable to freedom of self-determination and self-realization for ourselves and others at Clemson University."

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Moving into community service projects, the Young Republicans worked with Student Government and the S. C. Jaycees to help fight illiteracy in the Clemson area; activities included canvassing and tutoring. The Club also sponsored a two-day Parliamentary Procedure Workshop, the first of its kind here; a Viet Nam Mail Call, which enlisted students to mail Christmas cards to U. S. servicemen, and several Republican-oriented speakers.

A club newsletter was brought out each month, and plans were initiated for a Club "library" to include pertinent books and pamphlets.

Looking toward this fall's state elections in South Carolina, the club leadership has encouraged members to form opinions on prominent issues and on potential candidates. Last fall the club joined in the move toward initiating a statewide Republican primary to replace the convention method of naming candidates.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

The Wesley Foundation at Clemson is a service of the United Methodist Church to the university community, but it is not parochial or sectarian in its emphasis. It is committed to serving persons in their search for values and meaning, their concerns in ethics and morality, their exploration of the significance of faith, particularly in relationship to education, vocation, and a life philosophy; in their quest for identity and wholeness, their relationships to the world in which they live, and their attempts to be joyous, self-fulfilled human beings. The program of the foundation is based on a combination of these concerns with a forthright affirmation of the Christian view of life and the meaning of Christian discipleship. The building housing the foundation is a center intended for study, worship, interpersonal and group relationships, and the care of persons. The foundation, however, is more than an organization, program or building; it is the "presence" of Christ within contemporary education.

MILITARY

AIR FORCE ROTC

The Air Force ROTC Program here at Clemson is rated as one of the best existing. The Air Force ROTC Program strives to make officers out of men and men out of officers. The Air Force is selective of the people who enter its General Military Corps, and to enter its Professional Officer corps, the Air Force requires excellence in academics, physical qualifications and activities. The sophomore Command Leadership School is a preparatory program to train GMC cadets to be officers, whereas the junior Command Leadership School prepares the cadets and gives them experience with which to face summer camp. Bowman field welcomes Clemson's 770th Air Force Detachment to an hour of enrichment while increasing the cadets' mental and physical capacities. The Air Force ROTC four-year program provides young men with the opportunity to have the privilege and honor of becoming an officer in the United States Air Force.

The FLIGHT INSTRUCTION PROGRAM at Clemson provides extended training to advanced AFROTC cadets who wish to obtain a broadened flying background before entering Flight School upon graduation as commissioned officers in the United States Air Force.

In order to qualify for the Flight Instruction Program, a student must be an advanced Air Force ROTC cadet with at least two years remaining at Clemson before graduation. The cadet must show outstanding capabilities through the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test, which includes a pilot's aptitude tsst and a navigator's test. The cadet must also pass a thorough Air Force physical examination.

This program is attractive because FIP cadets may obtain a private pilot's license for less cost than most students can.

ANGEL FLIGHT

Angel Flight is the coed auxiliary of The Arnold Air Society at Clemson. The angels assist the society with their projects as well as participating in joint social activities.

This year the group began their projects by collecting a "mile of pennies" to help the victims of hurricane Camille. Angel Flight also hosts several projects for servicemen and underprivileged children.

Angel Flight has participated actively at the annual area conclaves held jointly with Arnold Air Society. The angels often engage in Thursday drills as a unit or separately with the R.O.T.C. flight commanders. Always subject to the inspecting eye of the military critic, Angel Flight strives to uphold the ideals of the Air Force and Clemson University.

ARMY ROTC

The United States Army ROTC Program offers the opportunity to become the leaders of tomorrow. Past graduates of Clemson University who received their commissions in the United States Army are the leaders of today. They are serving their country throughout the world and are proud to represent their country in foreign places. These were the men who completed the four-year program of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps. This program includes class instruction and corps training through drill procedures. The purpose of the Army ROTC Program is to develop young men into officers. After meeting all of the necessary requirements, only a young man's determination and will power will determine the heights to which he can reach.

ARMY FLIGHT

The Army ROTC Flight Program at Clemson University is designed to encourage, motivate, and instruct cadets who have the attitude required for U. S. Army pilot training after their graduation.

To be eligible for the Army ROTC Flight Program, a cadet must successfully pass a physical during his summer camp training in addition to a flight aptitude test administered during the Junior year.

All flight program cadets receive an entire semester of ground school instruction from accredited civilian instructors. They are instructed in preflight and basic flight procedures, navigation, cross-country, instrument flight, and meteorology. Each participant in this program receives thirty-five hours of actual flight training designed to give him confidence in his ability.

LIGHT BRIGADE

The scarlet-clad members of the Light Brigade always appear as a welcome sight to the boys in the Army ROTC cadet corps. Besides marching with their companies and battalions, one of their main activities, the Light Brigade also serves as secretary and hostess for the military staff and visiting Army dignitaries.

The Light Brigade girls have participated in several service projects during the year, including filling ditty bags for the men in Viet Nam, assisting with the Red Cross blood drive and their birthday cake sale. Trips are taken each year to nearby Army posts, such as Fort Gordon or Fort Jackson, as well as their usual outings for cookouts, hayrides, and picnics.

The Light Brigade has become an important part of the Army ROTC Cadet Corps of Clemson University.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Representing the most highly regarded college military organization on the Clemson campus, Company K-7 of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade brings together many outstanding leaders from all phases of our campus military structure—the Arnold Air Society, the Counterguerrillas, and the Pershing Rifles, as well as the battalion and wing staff officers. The major objective of the society is to promote a better understanding of the military organization and ROTC in general.

Clemson's Company K-7 has enjoyed a very active and successful year. Activities included selling rat hats, providing ushers for the president's box at home football games, sponsoring the annual military ball and banquet, and conducting the initiation of new members.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The Arnold Air Society joins together the active interested Air Force advanced cadets into a group that greatly benefits through friendship and participation. The big event of the Society's year is the annual Dining-Out, a banquet training function complete with Angel Flight members, mess dress, cigars, and one of the Air Force's most dynamic speakers.

Of the society's many projects, the major activity is the washing each semester of the Major Rudolph Anderson, Jr. Memorial in Greenville. The nearby stream is often the target for the "Top Brass."

Arnold Air's major activities this year included the building of a homecoming display, corsage sales, a hayride, and conclaves, as well as the plane washings and Dining-Out. All activities are done in conjunction with Angel Flight. Through activities and projects, the Major Rudolph Anderson, Jr. Squadron serves to promote the Air Force, to further train future officers, and to provide fellowship among these selected individuals.

PR FOURTH REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS

Serving as coordinator for some sixteen Pershing Rifle units located in the five-state area of the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, and Alabama, the Fourth Regimental Headquarters has been nationally acclaimed as the best among its eleven brother regiments across the nation. The Best Regiment Trophy stands in their display case for the third consecutive year—an accomplishment without precedent in seventy-five years of Pershing Rifle History.

The pimary responsibilities of the Fourth Regiment incompass the supervision, administration, mediation, coordination, and inspection of activities and personnel within the regiment, including the grading and rating of unit competition toward the coveted Douglas Trophy, presented to the outstanding regimental unit.

Commanded by National Headquarters at the University of Nebraska, the purpose of the National Society of Pershing Rifles is to promote standards of excellence among ROTC cadets in all service arms.

CAPERS

CAPERS, Coed Affiliates of Pershing Rifles, was established at Clemson University in 1968 by the authority of the PR National Headquarters at the University of Oklahoma. The main objection of CAPERS is precision, for they are a competitive, precision drill team. The CAPER aims are to establish life-long friendships, learn about the Armed Services, and gain a competitive drive.

CAPERS, also acting as a service organization, filled ditty bags and wrote letters to our soldiers in Viet Nam at Christmas time. They also help the Piedmont Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association with Christmas Seal distribution. This year they held exhibition drill meets at other schools and at the Fourth Regimental Drill Meet at Fort Gordon, Ga. Being sponsors for Company C-4 Pershing Rifles, CAPERS are present at numerous Pershing Rifles performances. The CAPERS also have many social functions in conjunction with the Pershing Rifles.

". . . to foster a spirit of friendship and cooperation among the men of the military department and to maintain a highly efficient drill team."

It is by this principle, set forth by the founder of the Pershing Rifles, General John J. Pershing, that the Pershing Rifleman lives, whether on the drill field in the heat of competition or at an impromptu party brought about by the quest for genuine fun. A PR learns to think and act like the men around him. This "one from many" begins on the drill field where, during a fancy drill routine, the individual PR must always be cognizant of what other members around him are doing in order to insure a precision unit, to perform separate feats as a single entity. The "oneness" instilled on the drill field carries over into private life where the members develop a spirit of fellowship and brotherhood uncommon to military organization on most university campuses.

PR PLEDGES

The PR Pledge Program for Company C-4 has undergone a complete overhaul this year. The pledges started the first semester with a period of training in basic rifle manual. They were inspected, and on the basis of attitude and progress, nine were chosen to march in the drill platoon.

Those that were not chosen to enter the company were not, however, forgotten. They were given the task of representing Clemson University in competition for basic 22-5 manual. They have become as much a part of drill competition as the advanced platoon, experiencing the same tension and the same desire to win.

No longer will the pledges drill toward an unforseeable goal. No more thoughts of the Company enjoying itself on trips while the pledge stays on campus. The pledge will be as much a part of that trip as a company member, sharing entertainment as well as sharing the pride of victory.

Company C-4 could not have chosen a better year to initiate this change in procedure, because this year's Pledge Platoon has got what it takes.

COUNTER-GUERILLAS

An elite volunteer organization, the Clemson Counter-guerrilla Platoon, is composed of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors interested in advanced military studies. The platoon places emphasis on total development of the individual.

Before earning their coveted black berets, candidates must complete a rigorous two-week physical training program culminated in a four-mile run and the Army Physical Combat Proficiency Test.

Advised and instructed by Captain Russell Stoewe and Staff Sergeant Bill Pray, the unit prepares the individual for service in a combat situation. Members are trained in hand-to-hand combat, mountaineering, small arms familiarization, and small unit patrolling with particular emphasis on counter-insurgency operations.

Practical application of this training includes regular field exercises, trips to Fort Jackson and Dahlonega Mountain Ranger Camp.

Although oriented toward the military, every facet of the program strives to develop personal traits of initiative, self-confidence, and discipline which will serve him well in both military and civilian life.

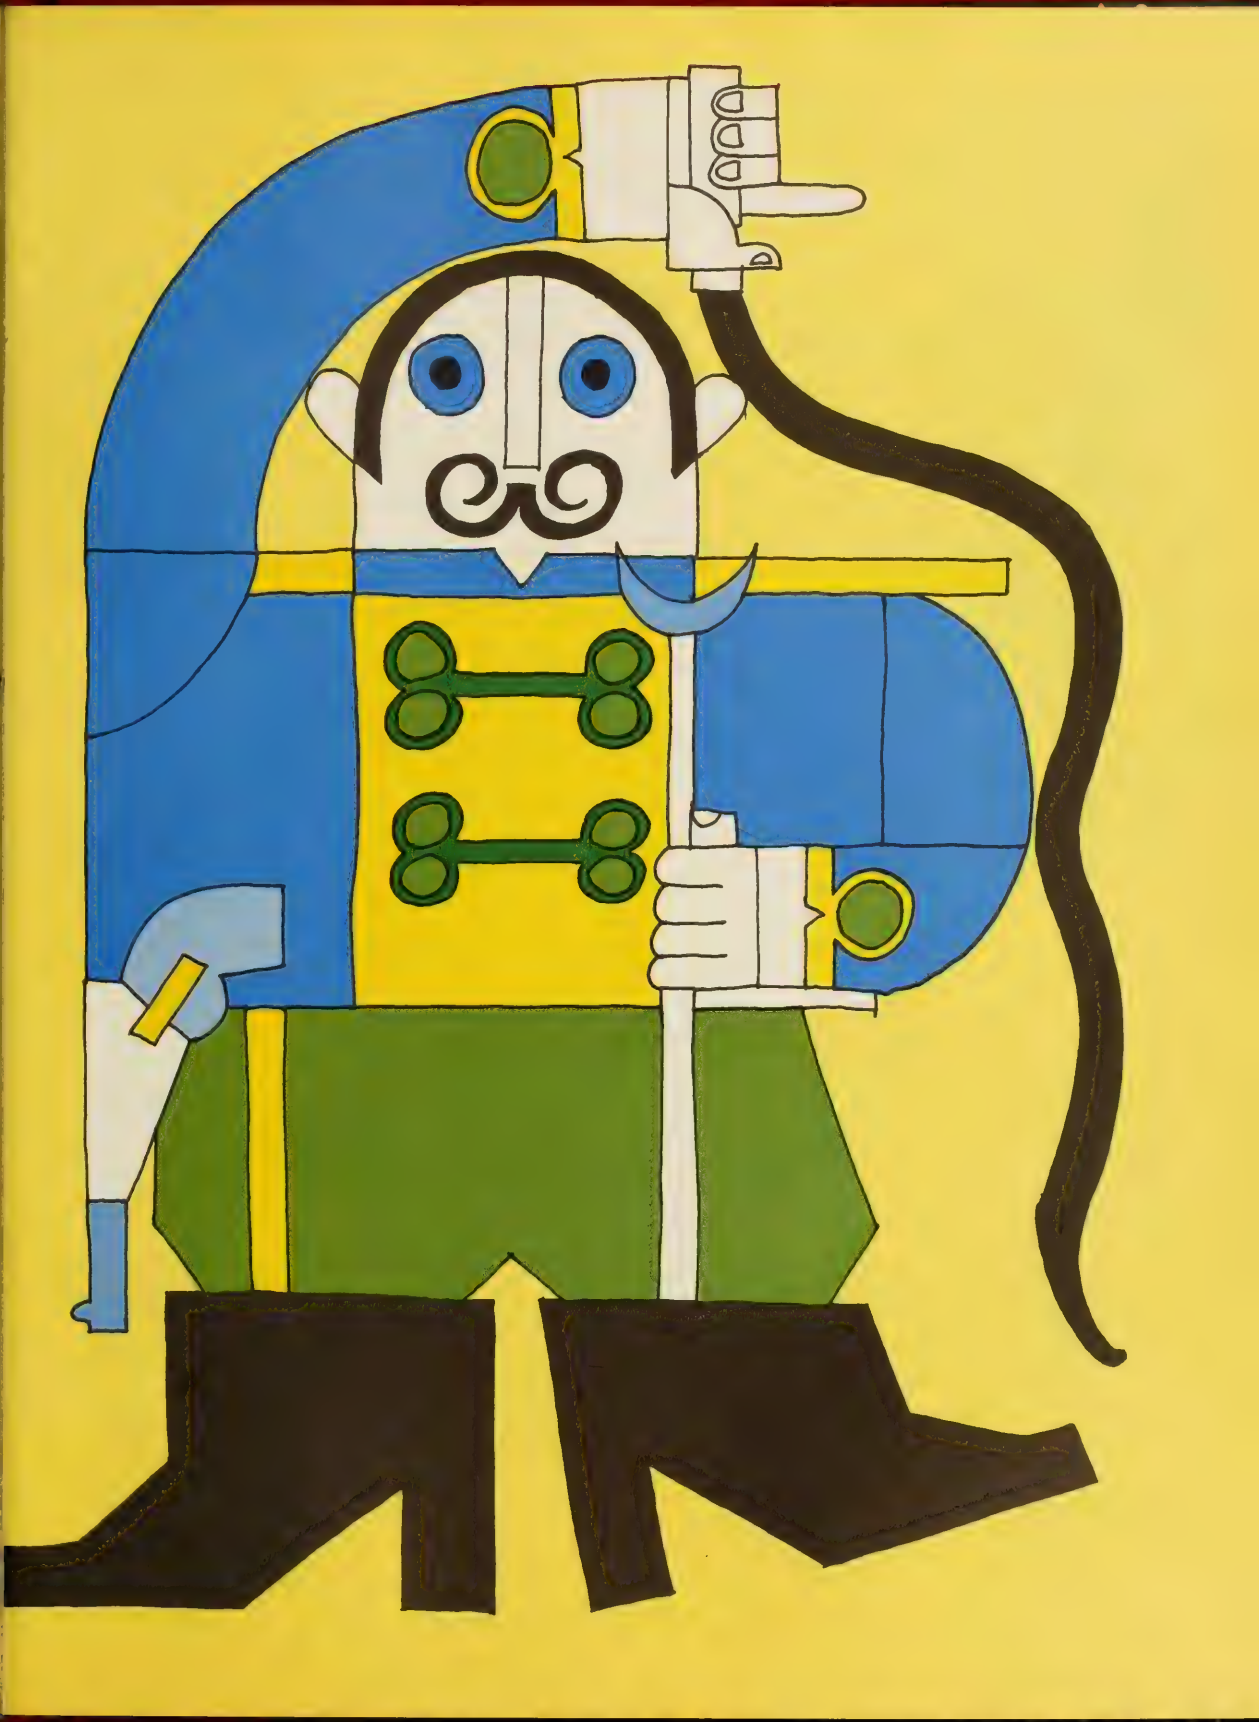
THE PROGRAM

For the past eighty years, military has been an important part of Clemson. Finally in 1959, ROTC became a two-year mandatory and two-year voluntary program. After much discussion and argument, ROTC is no longer mandatory at Clemson University. This giant step was taken only after many polls and a great deal of planning on the part of the University. There is a big question mark in the future of the military program at the University. Now that ROTC is no longer required, will ROTC survive? Only time will tell whether or not the military tradition will continue at Clemson.



ADMINISTRATION

DR. ROBERT C. EDWARDS

Dr. Robert Cook Edwards has served Clemson University in capacities ranging from student leader to president. He entered on an academic scholarship in September 1929. Before receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in Textile Engineering in 1933, he held membrship in Phi Psi, the Arnold Air Society, Blue Key, Phi Kappa Phi, Tiger Brotherhood, and Scabbard and Blade.

In 1956, Dr. Edwards became Vice-President for Development at Clemson University, and in 1959 became its president. Since then, he has received an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree at both Wofford and The Citadel.

Besides being intensely interested in all phases of his university, Dr. Edwards serves his community and state as a member of Lions International, the Clemson Rotary Club, the American Legion and the Shriners. He is a Master Mason and a steward in the Methodist Church. His affiliation with the United Student Fund, Inc., and the South Carolina Heart Association further demonstrates his interest in all phases of active, constructive participation.

In addition to his community interests, Dr. Edwards is an avid supporter of Clemson athletics. In all these things, he has shown that he is a man concerned with all phases of community and university life and with the world outside Clemson. He is a man of dynamic interests and in every way, a perfect example of the Clemson Gentleman.

THE CHALLENGE

Never before has Clemson University faced so many problems. Never before has Clemson University faced so many opportunities. Never before has Clemson University been more strongly manned, equipped and organized to serve the people of South Carolina—especially the young people.

With unwavering support and wise counsel from the Board of Trustees, Clemson University's Administration and Faculty are facing the future in a spirit of optimism and hope. They are perfecting the administrative machinery necessary to anticipate needs, to cope with situations as they arise, and to prepare for the future.

That future involves a probable enrollment of 10,000 by 1975. More importantly it involves a continued enhancement of quality in all of Clemson's many programs of teaching, research, and public service. Clemson's goal will never be less than the best.

This is important to the Class of 1970 and to all future graduating classes. Never before did leadership in business, industry, and the professions demand such high educational qualifications. The men and women who are to lead—and Clemson graduates always have been leaders—must have such qualifications. Clemson's continuing mission is to equip its graduates in the fullest sense for the demands of the future.

ROBERT C. EDWARDS, President.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

President of the Board, Edgar Brown is a senior member of the law firm Brown, Jefferies, and Mazursky and a State Senator from Barnwell County.

Former Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes is a life member of the board. He has served as Secretary of State, United States Congressman and Senator, and governor of South Carolina.

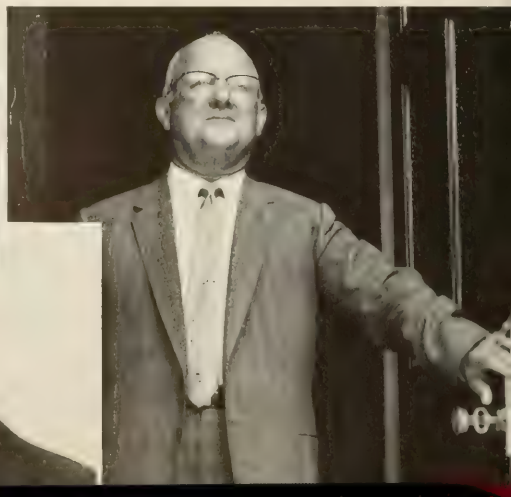
Life member Patrick Calhoun is executive vice-president of the North Carolina National Bank. He is former President of the Clemson Alumni Association and the University Foundation.

A life member from Hartsville, Robert Coker serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the Coker College Foundation. He also has an honorary Doctor of Science degree.

Kenneth Cribb, general manager of Troy H. Cribb and Sons, served at Clemson as president of Blue Key, co-editor of the "Tiger", and was also named to Who's Who.

Aside from serving on the Board of Trustees at Clemson University, L. D. Holmes has been the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award presented by the South Carolina Farm Bureau.

Life member Frank Jervey is a former vice-president of Development for Clemson. He was decorated for heroism in World War I and was chosen "exceptional civilian" in World War II.



A Clemson graduate, E. Oswald Lightsey is a past member of the Board of Visitors and is also now serving his second term on the National Alumni Council.

Gordon McCabe, graduate of the University of Virginia, is on the board of Directors of the S. C. National Bank and serves on the Board of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

A. M. Quattlebaum, president of Harlee-Quattlebaum Construction Company, graduated from Clemson in 1934 and attended Cornell for his masters. He is presently with the South Carolina Highway Department.

Paul Quattlebaum is a Clemson graduate in engineering. He is now serving on the Educational Policy and Student Affairs Committee, and on The Development and Public Relations Committee at Clemson.

James Self, life member, is a Citadel graduate. Today he serves as president of the Textile Investment Company and Greenwood Mills. He is also a director of the South Carolina National Bank.

Life member Winchester Smith has interests in agricultural development in South Carolina. He was the second Clemson graduate to be elected to the Board and resides in Williston, South Carolina.

CLEMSON ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Clemson Alumni Association is the tie that binds the closest brotherhood in the world—the Clemson Alumni family—and Clemson University.

Located in the heart of the Clemson campus, the Clemson Alumni Office is "service central" for more than 25,000 former students—19,000 of which have received the Clemson diploma—and for the more than 6,500 young men and women who share an educational experience in an environment of friendliness and diversity.

THE CLEMSON WORLD, published seven times a year and distributed to all active alumni and Clemson seniors, is the chief publication of the Association. The Clemson Placement Office is another facet that serves alumni and students alike bringing together those who are interested in new positions and firms that are seeking personnel.

Under the sponsorship of the Alumni Association, the Clemson Foundation maintains several student aid funds and also a permanent endowment fund to help insure the continued excellence of the University.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE

DEAN WILLIAM H. WILEY

Under the expert leadership and guidance of Dean William H. Wiley, this college has achieved national prominence in the fields of Resident Instruction, Research, and Extended Education. As one of Clemson's oldest and most established Colleges, it offers quality education designed to meet the ever demanding needs of the competitive era of tomorrow.

The biological sciences serve as the foundation of the complex and ever expanding agricultural sciences, while also serving the University's needs in the fundamental aspects of Biology. The students are given thorough training and experience in both the technical theory and practical reality of the basic principles of agriculture and biology.

By combining modern technology with tradition, the college endeavors to prepare its graduates for career opportunities in education, industry, business, services, communication, conservation, and recreation.

COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE

DEAN HARLAN E. McCLURE

By stressing the principles of function, structure, design, beauty, and the enrichment of society as a whole; the College of Architecture prepares young men and women for a professional life.

The curricula offered are not found elsewhere in our state. Pre-professional and professional programs in Architecture, City-Planning, and Building Construction are provided at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The currriculum in Architecture tries to balance a background of social sciences and math with professional training for the four-year Bachelor of Arts degree in Pre-Architecture. Then a masters degree is offered after two years of graduate work.

Students may elect City Planning as their graduate area of study. It is the objective of the city planner to make the city's form imaginative and balanced.

The curriculum in Building Construction is a four-year undergraduate program designed to train young people for top positions through a program of balanced study.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

DEAN HAROLD F. LANDRITH

The School of Education provides professional programs designed to prepare undergraduate and graduate students for careers in the field of education. The Clemson University Teacher Education Committee which includes four public school administrators, a committee from each department offering a teaching major, and the School of Education have designed curricula for those preparing to teach. The curriculum for each program gives the student opportunity to acquire a broad general education through liberal arts and science courses. Besides learning the historical, philosophical, and psychological background of American Education, each student is given the chance to learn and to put into practice effective teaching methods.

There are programs leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Elementary Education or Secondary Education, and to a Bachelor of Science degree in Secondary Education or Recreation and Parks Administration.

Through directed teaching and Teacher's Aide programs, Clemson University will be able to produce better qualified teachers.

COUNTER-CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Ray prepares his lesson in graphic arts. It's not all classroom work for R.P.A. majors. Dean Landrith is one of the busiest men on campus. Practical experience is the best teacher. Arts and Crafts are parts of elementary education.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

DEAN L. G. RICH

The era of space exploration is responsible for extensive revisions in Clemson's College of Engineering. Besides offering the traditional curricula in civil, electrical, mechanical, chemical, ceramic, and agricultural engineering; the college is planning to establish programs in the new fields of extraterrestial engineering and ocean engineering.

Additionally, the college has made ample time available for students to take more courses in the humanities, thus preparing the engineering student to deal with social problems.

An important part of engineering is research. The new Rhodes Engineering Research Center completed this fall houses special laboratories for implant surgery, water and air pollution control processes, and hybrid computers.

Another important activity of the college of engineering is the continuing education for engineers employed by industry. Through its Office of Industrial and Municipal Relations, the college has sponsored many short courses and seminars in new technological developments. These courses designed for engineers in practice, provide a useful function in translating the research discoveries into industrial practice.

COLLEGE OF INDUSTRIAL MANAGEMENT AND TEXTILE SCIENCE

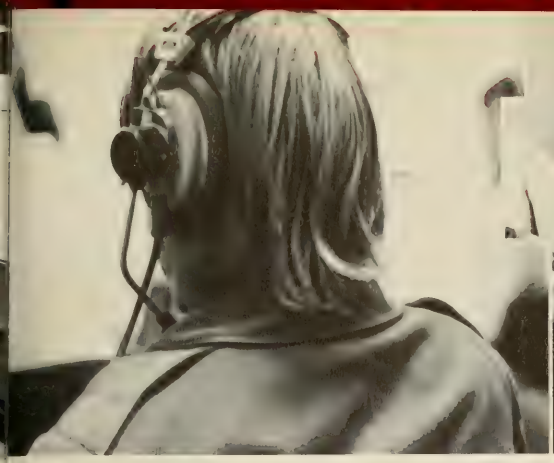
DEAN W. D. TREVILLIAN

Existing for fourteen years, the College of Industrial Management and Textile Science has educated young people for the professional and textile fields, training them for key positions in the expanding economy of our country and state.

The curriculum includes undergraduate programs leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Management, Textile Science, and Textile Chemistry and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics. Programs of graduate study are offered in Management, Economics, Textiles, and Textile Chemistry.

The College of Industrial Management and Textile Science strives for a diversified and versatile education in all its programs, following the belief that a lifelong capability for education increases the effectiveness of a potential leader.

COUNTER-CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Who was it that told me to wear a necktie to lab? W. D. Trevillian, Dean of the College of Industrial Management and Textile Science. Firsthand knowledge of the weaving process is gained through the use of looms in textile labs. Because of the large size of looms people are amazed that weaving is such a slow process.



COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

DEAN H. M. COX

The strengthening and enrichment of Clemson University's educational programs are underscored with the creation of the college of liberal arts.

The college of liberal arts initially consists of four academic departments: English, modern languages, music, social sciences. D. W. Daniel Hall, an almost two million dollar facility, provides classrooms and offices for the departments of English, modern languages, and music.

Undergraduate degree programs are now available in English, history, modern languages, political science, psychology and sociology, with graduate programs offered in most of these areas. An interdisciplinary program leading to a minor in fine arts is offered, and plans are to expand the program into a major concentration. Plans are already under way to initiate additional programs at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

More than a year of careful planning and coordination have laid the groundwork for the creation of the College of Liberal Arts and course offerings on the graduate level are anticipated with a sizable number of graduate students by 1975.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

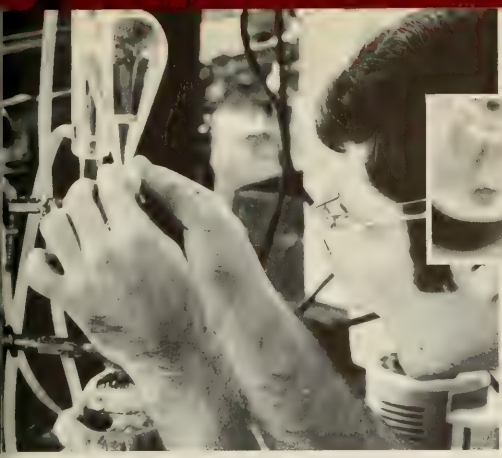
DEAN GERALDINE LABECKI

The School of Nursing, created in 1965, provides two programs designed to prepare the student for a career in nursing.

The shorter program, which last two academic years and one summer session, leads to an Associate in Arts degree. The purpose of this program is to prepare technically and competent nurses who will practice in hospitals, clinics and similar agencies. The clinical nursing experiences take place in the Anderson Memorial Hospital.

The program leading to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing lasts four academic years and is designed to prepare nurses for the practice of professional nursing in various settings such as hospitals, industries, and clinics. The program offers the foundation for graduate study in nursing and an unlimited opportunity for sound career development in professional nursing. Clinical nursing experiences, also under the guidance of the faculty, take place with patients in the Greenville Hospital system.

COUNTER-CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Student nurses keep up with the progress of a patient. Dean Labecki heads up a fine staff. All he really has is a hangover. Wow! Look at this magazine I found under the sheets of the last patient.



COLLEGE OF PHYSICAL AND MATHEMATICAL SCIENCES

DEAN C. V. AUCOIN

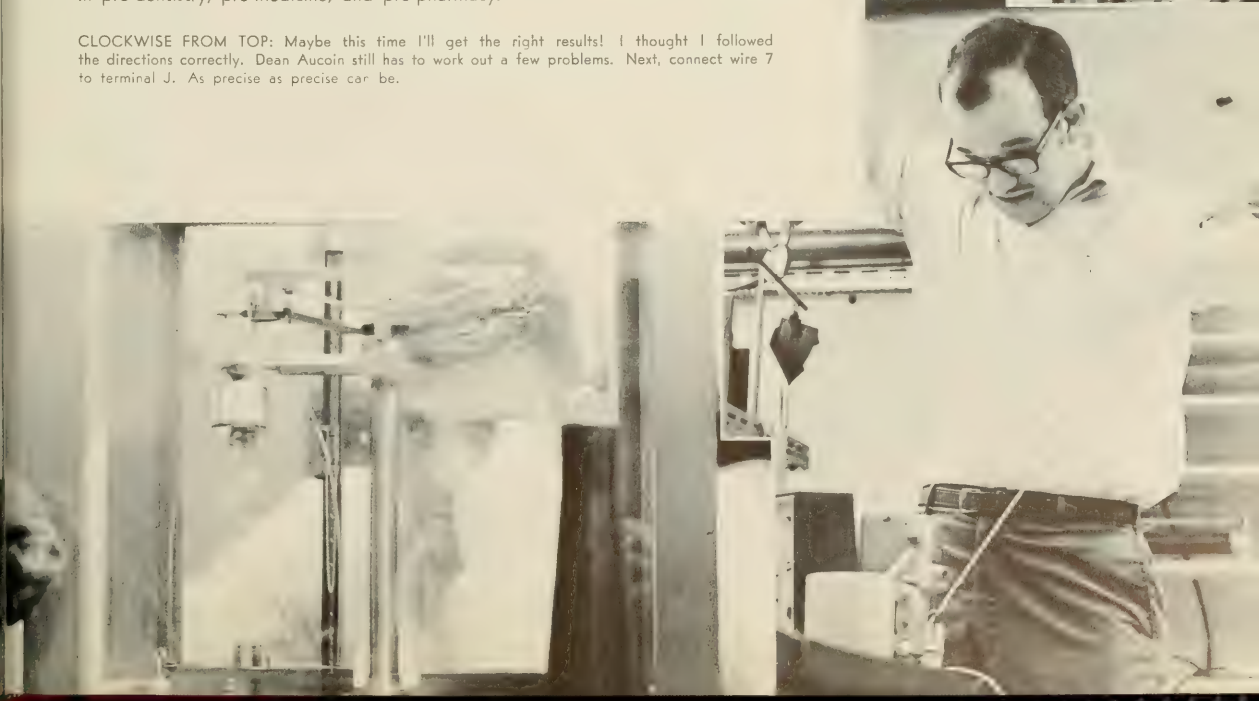
Always attuned to the times and its needs, Clemson University's traditional strengths in the physical and mathematical sciences are advancing on a broad front with the establishment of the College of Physical and Mathematical Sciences.

Created with the division of the College of Arts and Sciences on July 1, 1969, the new college initially has three departments: chemistry and geology, mathematics, and physics.

In cooperation with Anderson Memorial Hospital and Greenville General Hospital, the college offers a four-year curriculum in medical technology. The first three years are spent in class work at Clemson and the final year in residence at one of the hospitals where the student takes courses under instruction of the hospital staff.

The College of Physical and Mathematical Sciences also has quality programs in pre-dentistry, pre-medicine, and pre-pharmacy.

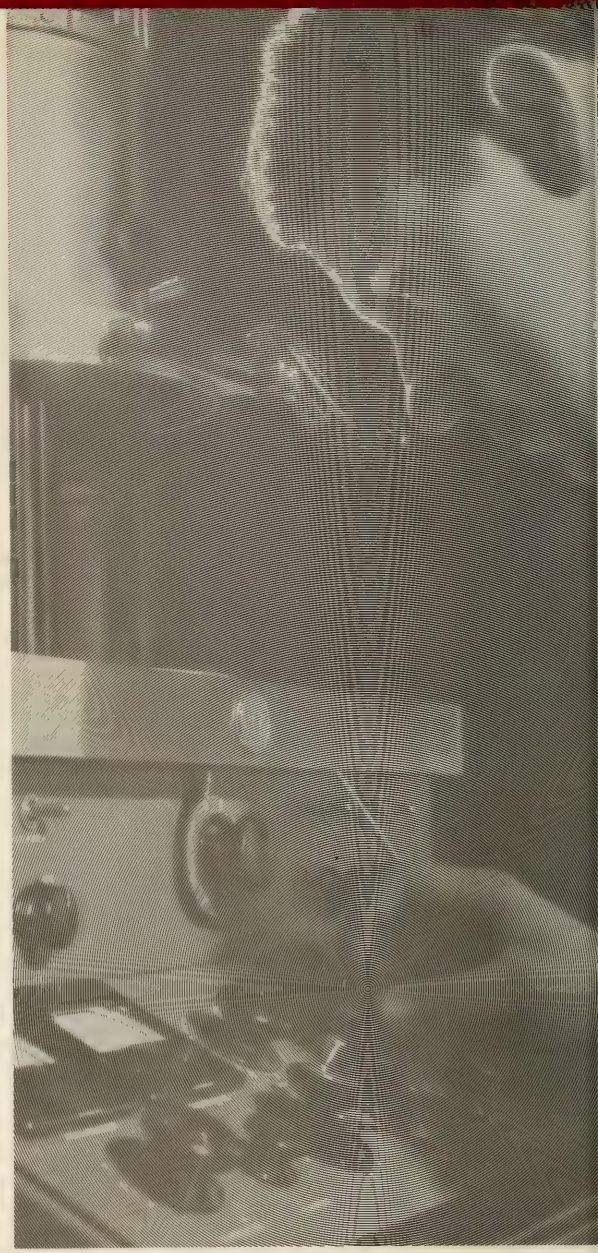
CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: Maybe this time I'll get the right results! I thought I followed the directions correctly. Dean Aucoin still has to work out a few problems. Next, connect wire 7 to terminal J. As precise as precise can be.

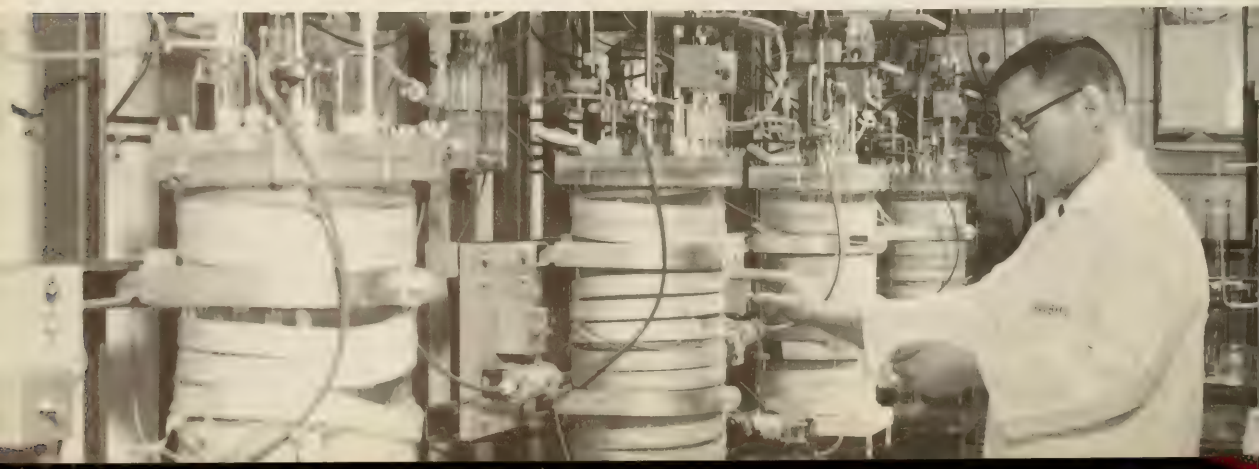


RESEARCH

Here at Clemson, research is the quest for knowledge to help man and to improve his environment. Research courses are offered in such various fields as medicine and biology, mathematics, economics, architecture, education, and industrial management. This research has been the development and proving ground for such innovations as bone and tissue replacements for the human body, the planning of cities of the future, and the application of engineering science to the solution of practical problems encountered in medical research.

Research growth has been phenomenal at Clemson for the past several years. Additional facilities are being built and planned to accommodate these rapidly expanding research programs. Research at Clemson has an extremely promising future, and it is obvious that Clemson is making significant contributions to the well-being of the Twenty-First Century Man.





GEOLOGY RESEARCH

In addition to the other fields in which research is now being done at Clemson, there are several studies being made in specific areas of the field of Geology. Participating in these research projects are Dr. R. D. Hatcher, Dr. V. S. Griffin, Dr. P. K. Birkhead, Dr. D. S. Snipes, and Dr. G. M. Haselton.

The project of Drs. Hatcher and Griffin, for example, involves a study into the interpretation of the geological history of the northwestern section of South Carolina. Dr. P. K. Birkhead is presently trying to classify a species of marine coral which has been known to bear petroleum deposits.

The research is being financed by outside foundations in an effort to uncover information which will bring us to a better understanding of the earth's history and possibly bring out new mineral reserves that can be used to better our environment.

ENGINEERING

Research at Clemson expands into many areas of engineering. Civil Engineering, for example, is conducting current research in the areas of construction control testing, pavement design, and highway safety.

Clemson's Chemical Engineering students are studying the unpredictable path of the molecule. The chemical research is performed by professors with advanced undergraduate and graduate students on worthwhile problems that provide an educational experience for the students.

Other areas of engineering research are those in Engineering Mechanics (working with ground water—surface water relationships and effects of friction-reducing additives) and in Electrical Engineering (working with the study of different electrical geophysical methods).

At Clemson many projects of Biomedical Engineering research are active, all of them applying the principles of engineering science to the solution of practical problems encountered in medical research.

Research in the various fields of engineering at Clemson are helping man advance into civilization today, and into space tomorrow.

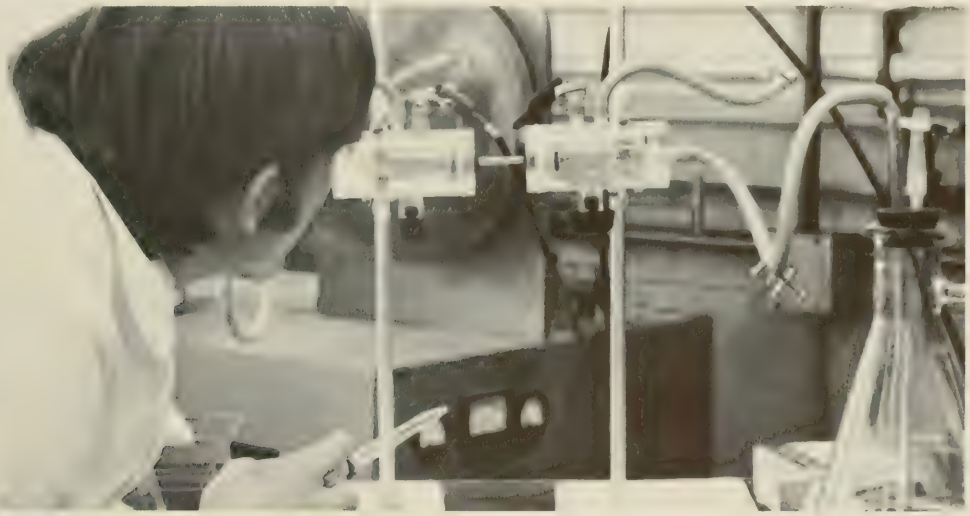
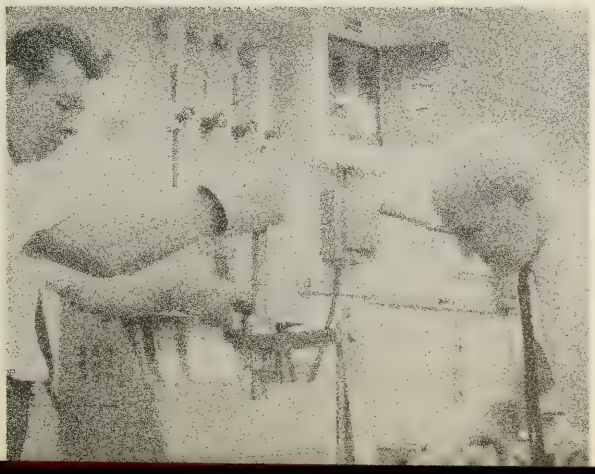
CERAMIC ENGINEERING

Research projects in the Ceramic Engineering department are presently being conducted by Dr. Samuel F. Hulbert and Dr. Clifford C. Fain. One experiment is with water soluble glass; another is with replaceable ceramic bones.

The idea of the glass project is to develop a container material which after use or if broken will revert back to its original elements. Once the glass is shattered the bonds between the molecules will be disarranged causing the glass to decompose. This glass will eliminate a major portion of our waste problems.

Drs. Hulbert and Fain hope that the ceramic bones they are working with will someday replace old, brittle human bones. Successful bone transplants have been made on dogs, bringing closer the goal of successful human transplants.





TOP TO BOTTOM: Insertion of porous ceramic in dog femur. Blood coagulation studies by J. Klawatter. Processing of water soluble glass test specimen is a part of research on design and evaluation of a water soluble disposable glass packaging container.

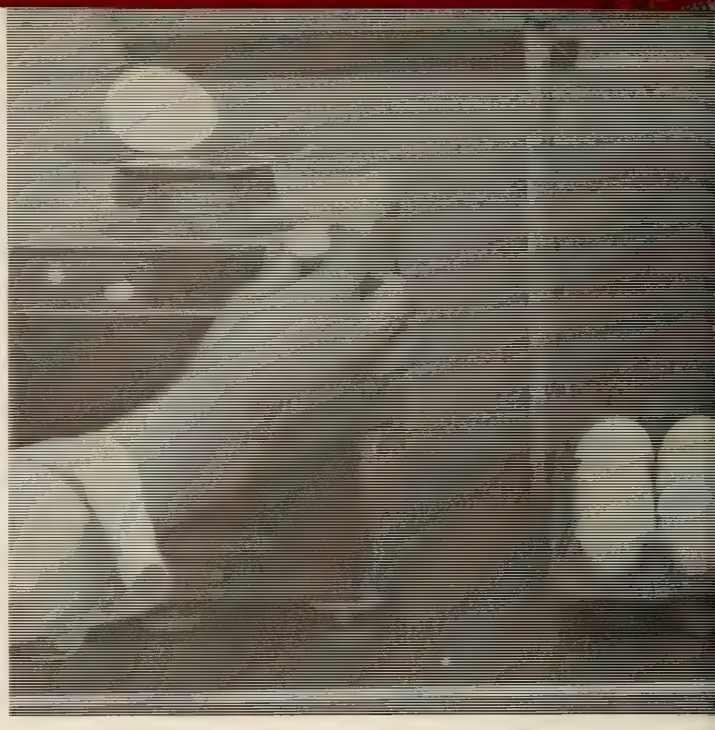
AGRICULTURE

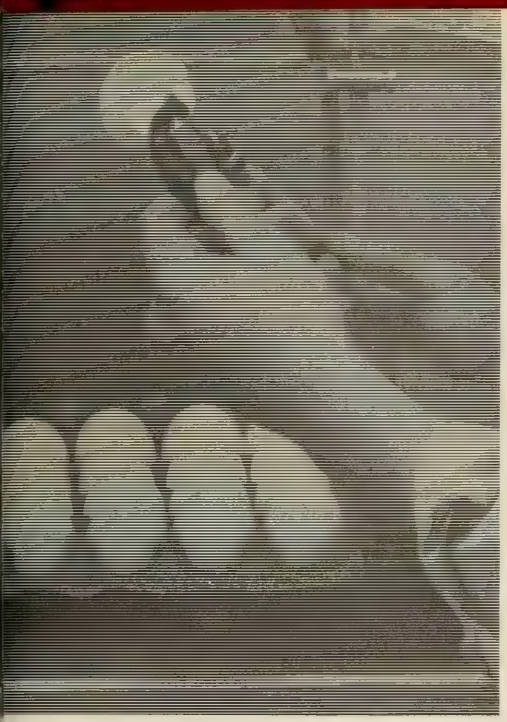
Although the search for food goes on as before; it has taken on special significance since millions today are on the verge of starvation. To help the United States assume the burden of feeding the world's masses, Clemson University has vigorous programs of research on food production, processing, and improvement.

Today agricultural research is conducted at the campus, and at four branch stations located throughout the state. The branch stations are well-located so as to carry on research applicable to all of the geographical regions of the state.

Work is being done on all phases of agriculture from producing a better quality product to devising better farming equipment. Through research at Clemson, valuable and economic substitute food products are being obtained from the simple soybean.

Clemson University looks forward to a future in research that will make significant contributions to the twenty-first century.





CLOCKWISE FROM TOP CENTER: Stronger shells are being developed to allow easier shipping of eggs. A giant pea picker undergoes a vigorous examination. It takes more than water to grow a healthy plant. Soil samples from all over the state are tested. Peach picking goes automatic with help from Clemson. Laboratory cultures are studied. Supper chicken has his battery recharged.

We're a people company

Our business is textiles. But we're a people company, too.

Springs has always been known for the importance it attaches to people. This attitude shows in our profit-sharing plans, our system of 26 employee cafeterias, our medical program with five full-time doctors and 28 registered nurses who staff a dozen medical clinics. And in many other ways.

Out of this concern for people has grown a strong feeling of mutual respect. Don't take our word for it. Ask the 19,500 people who work in Springs' 22 plants in North and South Carolina.

For information about career opportunities with Springs Mills, write Manager of Recruiting, Fort Mill, S. C. 29715. Springs is an equal opportunity employer.

Everyone thinks we do something else.

Fashion designers know us for our sportswear, double knit, menswear and rainwear fabrics. The housewife will probably tell you we're a drapery, slipcover and pillow manufacturer. Furniture manufacturers come to us for the highest quality foam cushioning.

Ask a lithographer what Reeves does and he'll tell you we make compressible offset blankets. Most automotive companies will tell you we supply them with coated fabric diaphragms and polyurethane foam seat padding. The U.S. Army thinks we're in the portable landing strip business.

Truckers specify tarpaulins made of our fabrics. Skiwear manufacturers know us for a coated fabric development that breathes. Converters ask us to do their fabric finishing.

Almost everybody knows us for something special.

If you want to work for a company that is known for quality products and service in many industries, drop a note about yourself to Mr. J.D. Moore, President.

We'd like to make you a part of the "something else" team.

Textiles, the country's oldest industry and of vital need to national defense and welfare, is no "Johnny Come Lately" to the scene. Its changing and dynamic approach to today's demands often goes unnoticed though the story of textiles is stimulating and exciting.

Woodside Mills, a part of this fourth largest industry, in the country, reflects a tone of progress for the future

To young people seeking opportunity, we enthusiastically suggest your future be discussed with us.

If it's anything to do with management opportunities in textiles, we have them at Burlington, and we have more of them than anyone in the world.

As the world's largest, most diversified and fastest-growing manufacturer of textiles, we have an unusually large, diversified and fast-growing number of career opportunities.

More than 130 plants in 15 states provide careers in virtually every phase of textile management.

Don't overlook the opportunity to begin to build your career where...

"If it's anything to do with fabric we do it at Burlington and we do more of it than anyone in the world."

An equal opportunity employer.

Now that the professors are no longer around...

Whom do you turn to for help in solving problems? Well, if it's textile wet processing problems, put the name Tanatex down in your little black book. And don't hesitate to call for help as often as anything puzzling comes up.

You're undoubtedly delighted at completing your formal education. And you have our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for success.

But now the serious education begins* — your discovery of the competitive, on-the-job facts of life. And you can make no better start than discovering the problem-solving potential of Tanatex.

As a matter of fact, the Tanatex continuing series of Technical and Procedure Bulletins is probably one of the most valuable post-graduate courses of study you can take.

"Enroll" for it now. Drop us a card and we'll put you on the list to receive the Bulletins immediately. What's more, we'll send you a binder of the previous issues covering plant-proven formulae and procedures for a wide range of textile wet processing applications you'll be handling every day in the years ahead.

That's why they call it "Commencement."*

Seed Breeders For The South

For 67 years Coker scientists have been developing pedigreed seed varieties for Southern farmers. The outstanding performance of Coker-bred varieties has written many new chapters on the productivity of Southern farms and contributed in no small way to America's distinguished role as a world supplier of agricultural products. Our famous Red Hart Trade Mark is known throughout the world as a symbol of the integrity of Coker plant breeding methods and the quality of seed varieties developed on Coker farms.

JAMILE J. FRANCIS

One hundred and sixteen Greenwood County youths are currently enrolled at Clemson University. Parke-Davis congratulates the twenty-one 1970 graduates from Greenwood County, and the ninety-five students who will be continuing their education at Clemson.

The Medical-Surgical Products Division began operations in Greenwood in 1962. Since then the annual sales of this division have increased by 500% and the plant facilities have been increased by more than 300%. This makes Parke-Davis one of the fastest growing industries in South Carolina. Parke-Davis is pleased to have several Clemson graduates in positions of high level management responsibility.

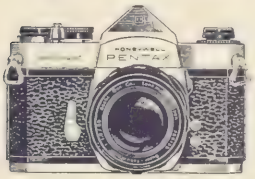
Honeywell Pentax Spotmatic f/1.8



Here's today's best fine-camera value! Identical to the best-selling f/1.4 Spotmatic except that it features a crisp 55mm f/1.8 Super-Takumar lens, this addition to the Honeywell Pentax family gives you genuine Spotmatic performance at a lower price.

Its through-the-lens exposure system is famous for uncanny accuracy. Because it sees exactly what the lens sees, you'll get properly exposed pictures, even under the most difficult lighting conditions. And, although the Spotmatic delivers professional-quality results, it's exceptionally easy to use.

This superb 35mm single-lens reflex camera also features a fully automatic diaphragm; shutter speeds to 1/1000 sec.; built-in self-timer, and much more—all for just $249.50. Come in and see this exciting Honeywell Pentax Spotmatic soon!

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Was 1969-70 different from all the other years that have rolled over us in their intimidating banality?

You're damned tooting.

Before Christmas, no one really believed any longer that Clemson was the Flower of the South, or the proverbial buckle on the Bible Belt, or the cornerstone of anti-communism. Most of them shrunk with fear that Strom Thurmond's alma mater had been taken over by a handful of professional agitators. The "damned Yankee, hippy, peace-queer communist troublemakers" had turned that pastoral trade school into a hotbed of Godless dissent and moral depravation. Alas and Goddamn.

Well, maybe it was mostly the same old Clemson with the same old give-a-damn students. But was it really? Something was different. People were angrier, and many of them were much more active, and the news coverage of the school was by far more frequent than ever before.

It was this: The minority of students who aren't willing to take the same old administration line, listen to the same old b. s. day-after-day-after-day-after-day, and let the world's problems go unmentioned grew larger, stronger, more militant, and at the same time more rational, more calculating and more effective.

Rat Season again was the first stormy issue of the year, but not that many people get excited over The Tiger's effort to destroy Rat Season anymore.

Then the Student Union Dig-In, for what it was worth, cropped up to embarrass Dr. (sic) R. C. Edwards, who prefers to lobby for the school without the help of so-called student demonstrations and the like. The chances for getting the union are good now, and the effort to convince the S. C. General Assembly and the Governor that we must have it was the product of work from several circles, but no one can deny that students constantly shouting their demand for the union was quintessential in changing people's minds.

Edwards and his staff set themselves for the next battle, and Terry Clyne's proposal for a student-run canteen on East Campus was summarily vetoed by the Executive Council. Students are students you know and shouldn't busy themselves with financial operations. Or was it that such an enterprise would drain away Athletic Department revenue? Or was it. . . .

And then like 3,000 atom bombs—the October 15 Vietnam Moratorium. What a humiliation for the administration. Clemson students just don't do things like that. They're nice, clean-cut, pro-war, McDonald's hamburger American boys and girls who wouldn't dare stand in that amphitheatre reading the names of war dead, and holding those goddamned candles, marching with them hippies from Georgia, listening to that communist David Schoenbrun undermine American patriotism and the overall war effort, staying up all night to say that THEY are for an immediate withdrawal of all U. S. troops from Viet Nam. Who the hell do they think they are, anyway?

Clemson, Clemson, what has happened to you? All those students wanting to get rid of the Confederate flag, the Stars and Bars. Oh God. And "Dixie" offends them, and they sued the University to hold a regional, a regional moratorium to bring in all them outside agitators, and the long-haired Mary Janes forced Frank Howard to resign as football coach, and the venereal disease rate went up according to The Tiger, and coeds are staying out all night half the time, and Clemson students, our Clemson students from Spartanburg and Anderson and Walhalla and Columbia and Camden and Rock Hill, not just them damned New Jersey hippies, are smoking marijuana and shooting gook into their veins, and the football team was lousy and the basketball team was worse and where will it end? I ask you, where will it end?

Whatever happened to coming home on the weekends and sitting here with us and telling us about good grades and the pretty new girlfriend whose father is independently wealthy and wanting to be an engineer or a doctor or a sales representative and watching the Saturday ballgame with Daddy and going to church with us on Sunday like in the good old days. I ask you—what has happened to the good old days?

Oh Clemson, what have they done to you? I mean it's not as if John C. Calhoun hadn't lived right over there on that hill. The pep is gone from the pep rallies, that good old-time patriotic devotion to The School has died and The Hair is so long and the skirts so short and the clothes so dirty and I saw a pretty little girl from Pickens (Pickens, mind you) dating one of them long-haired, greasy-looking, wire rim glasses, tennis shoes and blue jeans and army jacket hippies and she kissed him and I wanted to retch and where will it stop?

And President Edwards is trying so hard and working so late and losing so much weight to try and run that university the way he knows it should be run and actually sitting for hours talking to those freaks and all in his office and all he gets is ingratitude. And every time he tries to do something that fishwrapper The Tiger is on his back to cut him down and ridicule him and complain and gripe and bellyache about something they don't even know anything about and try to tell the president of the university how to run the place and I know that the whole staff is probably from New Jersey or somewhere else in the North and they all dress shabbily and have long hair and gave so much unwarranted coverage to that moratorium and I think it's about time the administration closed it down and disciplined the editors.

Where? Where? Where has gone the old way when things were so calm and pleasant and students were students and didn't stick their noses into everything? What has happened to the Good Old Days?

DEAD, DEAD and GONE.

RECESSIONAL

So it goes. In the beginning was the Waste, and the Waste was with us, and we were the Waste. And we found ourselves up to our ears in Clemson's idyllic pastures. It covered up; it filled our eyes, our noses, smothered our youthful breasts, choked us and we knew it not. There, at the very beginning, we divided ourselves into two camps—those who were content to move upwind, and those who were determined to find the source and stop the flow. As always, both sides failed.

This, then, was the Clemson tradition—a series of driftings and flounderings; an attempt by some to keep their heads above it all, while others refused to tread. As always, a few sank beneath the mire—they are the heroes of this prayer.

For those who were content to move upwind, things more or less worked out. While they were never successful in escaping the wastes of academia, they got used to the odor. They became a part of the odor.

> ". . . Clemson as an institution and the vast majority of individuals who comprise the institution never forget that Clemson exists to train young people for useful careers of their own and for useful service to society."

We can dismiss the Joiners-of-the-Odor with a few words. They did what was expected of them. They do what is expected of them. They became "productive members of society"—that is, they learned to wallow. They were the majority; a silent and overpowering stench. It is enough to say that they never really enjoyed the offal; just lived and breathed in it. As expected.

But the story of Clemson, if it be a changing story, is not the story of the Eaters-of-the-Offal, but the story of the Seekers-of-the-Source, for though they were no more successful in escaping the horrible muck, they never forgot it stank. We trace the course of their failure here now.

> "The Board of Trustees . . . adopted in 1965 a directive proclaiming fredom of expression within the University community . . ."

There have always been Seekers. In recent years, their number has grown. They have not asked for the right to speak; they never thought it necessary to ask for a right. Among the graduates of '70 were the Seekers of '66.

> ". . . but forbidding any overt or violent acts which interfere with the functioning of the institution. The President is ordered and directed to enforce this policy by such disciplinary measures as he deems necessary."

Not that the Seekers hadn't always lived among the Waste; they had. But they expected something different from college. A new awareness, available for the asking. Perhaps they expected too much. What awareness they did get was handed to them on a shovel. It was enough in '66. Now they knew the Waste from what it as. The question became, "Where does it all come from?"

> "This policy has been repeatedly communicated to all concerned and has been of inestimable value in promoting an atmosphere of responsibility and mutual understanding."

The Seekers understood that someone was threatening them. Someone as content with the Waste, even pleased with it, and wished to preserve its tactical, defensive nature. In '67, they were still niave—too ill-founded in the scientific method to suspect that the Protectors-of-theOffal might be the Producers as well. They would learn.

> "Here at Clemson the administration has always and will always ask the faculty for recommendations . . . the qualification of academic administrators is one of the areas where the faculty should be of assistance . . ."

For a while, the Seekers suspected the faculty. Although the Seekers did not know what to suspect from a faculty, the faculty still was not what they expected. So they suspected.

> "This role however is not best fulfilled through an established procedure . . . we should keep the appointment system fluid."

But not for long. No, it wasn't the faculty. Most of them were assuredly Easters-of-the-Offal but not the Producers. (A few were Seekers in their own way.)

In '68, the Seekers knew their enemy. They found the Source, the fecund orifice, and set out to cap it. Journalists, politicians, Christians, Jews—the Seekers filled various roles in the war. They passed bills, and more bills, and wrote editorials, and more editorials, and said a few prayers and nothing fundamental was accomplished. They managed to dam, to channel, to divert—they reached a few goals, won a few compromised victories—but they never stopped the flow. They maintained their inferior under-it-all position for, try as they did, the sheer velocity and volume of the Waste was more than they could combat. Or outrun.

"A small group of students sought to convene on the Clemson campus a regional Vietnam Moratorium demonstration. . . . Administration, recognizing its responsibility for proper use . . . after a full hearing and the filing of detailed briefs and affidavits, Judge Donald Russell . . . his opinion fully upheld the University's position.

In '69 and into '70, the Seekers became resigned. The fought blindly now, full of resentment and pity, sick of the adjectives, the rhetoric, the stultifying Waste.

Thus sustained, Clemson's Administration is addressing itself anew to the future of the University. In a spirit of mutual understanding, we are determined to carry Clemson forward to higher degrees of excellence in every aspect of the University."

The Waste rose higher and higher. The Seekers had failed—the Seekers had always failed. They found the source—they faced the Producers—and were overwhelmed. Now, like the Seekers before them, they could leave—they had failed.

They leave with the only education Clemson offers—the realization of failure. It is the best sort of education. The Seekers learned that as long as there are men of no talent in high places, there will be Waste. And there will be Seekers, to lose the fight against Waste. That's a lot of knowledge.

The stench remains. The Producers grow fatter. The complacent, the Eaters-of-the-Offal, consume the Waste and know it not. And they are the Producers to tomorrow. They will consume, and grow large, and defecate, and others will feed.

So it goes.
